GREEKS HURL NAZIS BACK

ATHENS, Greece, April 12 (AP)—German panzer forces were hurled back from the region of Phlorina in a clash with Greeks on their new defense line, a Greek spokesman declared today. He said the mechanized Nazi troops were forced to retreat after entering through the Monastir Gap and attacking the fortified line. The German formations included tanks, motorcycles, armored cars and infantry.

A titanic battle, in which British troops and fliers are taking part, is reported now raging.

(At the same time a CBS-recorded broadcast from the Athens radio said Yugoslav troops had launched a violent counter-attack southward from the center of the country.)

BATTLE OF GREECE RAGING

British armored units, Greek mountain warriors, German Panzer divisions, and mighty air forces on both sides today were locked along a broad front in northern Greece in what the Greek government called "one of the most stubborn battles of all history."

British planes were reported swarming into Greece, bombing and machine-gunning bridges, roads and tunnels along Germany's line of march toward the British-Greek defense line across the Hellenic peninsula from Phorina east to Mount Olympus.

The clash which may decide the outcome of the whole Balkan struggle began when steel-clad British mechanized detachments reported "shooting up" a German infantry body in the Florina sector.

Later a "fierce battle" was reporetd by the British to be raging in the same area below the key Monastir Pass.

Authoritative German quarters, however, said that the Anglo-Greek forces already apparently were dropping back from the Olympic region and forming a new front on the east-west line running from the southern Albanian front to Larissa near the Aegean Sea. Thus, according to the Germans, the Allies are abandoning more than a third of Greece.

The entire struggle, according to the Germans, is developing into a "re-enactment of the fiasco of France." They said the British are getting ready to quit Greece and thereby avoid another Dunkirk.

However, the Germans said they may pause for a few days and gather their forces once more for the final Nazi assault.

GUERILLA WARFARE

In Yugoslavia, the Germans said, the fight already has narrowed down to guerilla conflicts in the many rings created by Nazi pincers movements.

The Greek high command admitted that German orces, smashing through from Bitolj, Yugoslavia, had reached the Greek lines in the Phlorina sector on the west flank while on the eat flank, an Athens government spokesman said, Nazi troops "have penetrated further."

Reports from the front said advance units of the German army had encountered British patrols between Gianista, 48 miles north of Mt. Olympus, eastern achor of the defense line, and the Aegean coast.

Details of the engagement were meager, but the British earlier had acknowledged Gianista was in German hands.

BIG BATTLE NEAR

Theologos Nicoloudis, Greek press minister, informed the residents of German-occupied Macedonia and Thrace last night:

ITALIAN, NAZI FORCES JOINED, ROME REPORTS

ROME, April 12 (AP)—Italian troops joined forces with the Germans on the shore of Lake Ohrid in southwestern Yugoslavia and are "crushing all enemy resistance" in a steady advance, Stefani, official Italian News Agency, reported today.

"The march of powerful Axis armies is proceeding on all fronts," said a Stefani dispatch from the Yugoslav zone of operations.

The news agency said the Fascists and Nazis joined their lines yesterday midway between Struga and Ohrid, Yugoslav towns on the northeastern shores of the lake, when a platoon of Italian motorcyclists and a Bersaglieri regiment met a German motorcycle platoon.

Cries of "Heil Hitler" and Viva Il Duce!" marked the meeting, Stefani's account said.

The Italian advance was across Ciafatan ridge, whose summit the Italians had captured at the beginning of hostilities with the Yugoslavs.

Struga, which is about nine miles northwest of Ohrid, already had been occupied and Ohrid was entered afterwards.

An eleventh century fishing and flour milling town, Sturga has been the center of picturesque pilgrimages every year on the feast day of St. Clements, whose relics are preserved there. It is linked by rail with Nazi-occupied Skoplje.

In northern Yugoslavia, the Italians reported their forces captured Ljubljana, Zirl and Susak, the latter without firing a shot.

Home of U. S. Envoy Razed

WASHINGTON, April 12 (INS)—The residence of American Minister Arthur Bliss Lane at Belgrade has been "virtually destroyed" by German bombing attacks on the Yugoslavian capital, the State Department announced today.

A message received from a member of the American legation staff in Yugoslavia, which was filed late April 11, said all members of the legation staff and their families are safe. The message stated that the legation offices and consulate were still intact.

U. S. Ships Seen Facing Seizure As FD Sends Cargoes to Suez

WASHINGTON, April 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt's opening of a pathway to Suez to American ships carrying war cargoes raised serious questions today concerning their possible search and seizure—or even attack—by Axis submarine or airplane raiders which might operate in that African fringe of the war.

By eliminating from the combat zone a narrow watery strip between Italian Somaliland and the Arabian coast, the President opened a gateway for American vessels into the Gulf of Aden, the Red sea and the Suez Canal. All have been closed to United States commerce since Italy's entrance into the war.

While the areas touched by that water route have been freed of actual warfare by British victories over the Italians, or are neutral and non-belligerent, it was pointed out in informed quarters here there nevertheless would be elements of danger for any American vessels plying that course, particularly if they carried war supplies for Britain, Yugoslavia or Greece.

Adolf Hitler has warned that every ship, with or without convoy, attempting to carry arms and munitions to aid the British would be sunk.

At least one German pocket battleship has been reported raiding in the Indian ocean, on one of the routes from the United States to Suez. Axis planes reportedly have bombed ships in the Suez Canal.

While the 1939 neutrality act prohibits American ships from carrying supplies to belligerent countries it does not specifically forbid transport of cargoes which may be destined for trans-shipment to a belligerent from a neutral country.

Yet informed sources said that if American ships carry war supplies to Egypt—for use there, or by Britain, Greece and Yugoslavia in the eastern Mediterranean—they might be stopped, searched, and possibly suffer seizure of any contraband cargo, at the hands of German or Italian raiders.

State Department officials declined to discuss "hypothetical questions" which might involve American ships with German or Italian raiders or submarines.

Any and each incident involving attempted search or seizure of any American vessel, officials said, would constitute a separate case to be studied on the basis of the facts.

WEATHER REPORT

OFFICIAL U. S. WEATHER BUREAU REPORT

LOCAL—Fair tonight and Sunday; lowest temperature tonight in the high 30's; slightly warmer Sunday; light easterly winds shifting to southwest late tonight.

MAINE, NEW HAMPSHIRE AND VERMONT—Fair tonight and Sunday, with increasing cloudiness Sunday afternoon over north portions; somewhat warmer Sunday.

RHODE ISLAND AND CONNECTICUT—Fair tonight and Sunday; slightly warmer Sunday.

GENERAL CONDITIONS

A disturbance now in the central part of the country, near the Canadian border, will move eastward and cause increasing cloudiness. The resulting cloudiness, however, will not wholly prevent sunshine through the clouds during part of Sunday. The high pressure with warm dry air that has dominated this section for some time is still nearly stationary over New England. The early morning fog condition will clear today but is likely to recur tonight over southern New England. It will be warm in the interior sections again today, while the sea breeze will prevent high temperatures along the coastal sections. Sunday will be slightly warmer than today. A disturbance that moved inland from the Pacific early yesterday is causing rain in the southwestern part of the country and snow in Nevada. Temperatures are abnormally higher over all central sections of the country.

Slav Premier, King in Flight

BERN, Switzerland, April 12 (AP)—A German radio broadcast heard here today said Premier Gen. Dusan Simovic had left Yugoslavia on a "mission" which presumably was taking him to Moscow.

The broadcast added that King Peter II was now in Greece, en route to England.

Soviet Russia and Yugoslavia signed a pact of friendship and non-aggression last Saturday, the day before Adolf Hitler sent his legions into Yugoslavia and Greece. But there has been no outright indication that the Soviet planned to follow this up with material aid to Yugoslavia.

The Moscow press the next day hailed the treaty as an "outstanding milestone" in efforts of the two countries to preserve peace.

MRS. FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

First Lady in Hub to Attend Niece's Wedding

First Lady Here, Sees Peril in Strike Ban

Proposal to make striking an act of treason for workers on defense contracts is "a dangerous thing for the future," Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President warned today on her arrival here for the Roosvelt-Elliott nuptials this afternoon in Dedham.

The right to strike should be preserved by law, she declared, adding that the strike situation "is more encouraging than appears on the surface." This came in an interview that covered the two family weddings within the next 48 hours, the national defense picture and egg-rolling on the White House lawn.

Here for the wedding of her namesake-niece, Eleanor Roosevelt, to Edward Proctor Elliott, Yorkshire, England, architect, she plans to fly from Washington tomorrow for the wedding of her son, James, to Miss Romelle Schneider in Los Angeles.

With characteristic forceful frankness, Mrs. Roosevelt freely discussed the present strike situation in this country as affecting national defense.

Betty Alden Tells Of Eleanor Roosevelt's Wedding—Page 12

"After the first strikes broke out," she said, "it was proposed that we have anti-strike legislation making strikes treasonable on defense contracts.

FOOLISH, FIRST LADY SAYS

"I thought this rather foolish. We should act to preserve the right to strike by law. To take away this right is a dangerous thing for the future; dangerous to our mutual liberties.

"I don't think the jurisdiction of strikers should come up at this time in defense industries. If there is a stalemate, the government should take over the plants. This has always been done and always will be done.

"I believe such measures are far less serious than legislation outlawing the right to strike and it is only an emergency act."

"The ideal solution," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "would be to make arrangements so that both sides would be willing to arbitrate, with the understanding that arbitration should proceed

EASTER FAIR, WARM FOR BIG HUB PARADE

While Milady beamed jubilantly today with the promise of an Easter both fair and warm, one of the largest shopping throngs in Easter shopping history descended on Boston.

At the same time, thousands on thousands of the devout prepared for tomorrow's impressive religious ceremonies in churches both Catholic and Protestant, in observance of the feast of the Resurrected Christ.

The solemn and penitential season of Lent came to a close at noon today, ending the sadness of Good Friday and Holy Saturday with the triumph of the Resurrection.

ALTAR FLOWERS

Once again altars, stripped of all ornaments for the past two days, will be decorated with flowers and brilliantly lighted by candelabra. The sound of bells, symbolicly silenced during the hours of Christ's death, will joyously proclaim that He has risen from the grave.

With the first crack of dawn, Easter morn will be ushered in by choristers at a score of hilltop sunrise services in Greater Boston communities. Most popular of these is the annual service on top of Corey Hill, Brookline.

Solemn high masses, followed by colorful processions of children, will be held at all Catholic churches throughout the Boston archdiocese. At the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, Cardinal O'Connell will preside at a solemn high mass at 10 o'clock.

At Episcopal churches, Easter communion services will be held in the morning, followed by special sermons.

SPECIAL PROGRAM

Special programs of liturgical music will be presented by vested choirs at the Cathedral, the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Harrison ave., and at St. Mary's Church in the North End.

The Corey Hill sunrise service will be sponsored by Protestant churches in Brookline, Brighton and Allston. Early risers will be called to worship by a quartet of girl trumpeters.

William B. Burbank, choir master of St. Paul's Episcopal Church will lead the group singing and Dr. William R. Leslie, D. D., president of the Boston Area Council of Churches, will deliver the sermon.

Boy, 4, Playing With Matches, Badly Burned

Playing with matches in a vacant lot near his home today, James Noone, 4-year-old son of Wilbur J. Noone of Bolton pl., Charlestown, suffered third degree burns when his clothes caught fire.

The child is in Massachusetts General Hospital, his father standing by to give his own blood to save the boy's life.

Little Jimmy wandered away after breakfast. The next the family heard of him was when a police car, driven by Officer Frank Higgins of Station 15 dashed up and raced the father to the hospital.

Howard W. Blaikie of Walker st. heard a child scream and looking out of a window saw the boy in flames. He ran out and beat out the flames and carried the boy into his home.

A police ambulance carried the child to the hospital. He was treated by Dr. Nathaniel Faxon for third degree burns on the lower body and legs, and his name placed on the danger list.

Rome Church Bells Peal End of Lenten Season

ROME, April 12 (AP)—The bells of Rome's 420 churches, silent since last Thursday, rang out today to proonurce the end of Lent and Christ's resurrection.

In all the Eternal City's basilicas and minor churches organs poured forth their music again, altar candles were relighted and the mourning draperies of purple and black were lifted from the holy images.

In St. Peter's, Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, archpriest, struck sparks from the flint to light the "new fire" symbolizing the resurrection. Then he blessed the Pope's paschal candle, eight feet tall and three inches in diameter. This ceremony was followed by the Holy Saturday mass.

Priests, attended by acolytes, visited homes in Rome and throughout Italy, sprinkling them with holy water. In many homes the evening meal and food for the Easter dinner had been prepared and placed on the table so that it, too, might be blessed.

But in Rome as in other Italian cities wartime food restrictions eliminated or reduced the fancy foods and cakes usually had in quantities on this day. The traditional salami sausages and eggs with which to begin the Easter dinner were available, but the government had prohibited the manufacture and sale of Easter cakes.

Because of war conditions, there will be no Easter mass celebrated in St. Peter's by Pope Pius XII, but the Pontiff will deliver his Easter message beginning at 1 p. m. (6 a. m. EST), and his words will be broadcast to the world on short wave lengths 31.06 and 19.84.

Norris Warns Labor Of U. S. Strike Curb

By Associated Press

Prospective opening of the Ford Motor Co.'s River Rouge plant—largest industrial unit in the world—brightened the labor-defense picture today, but Sen. Norris (Ind.) of Nebraska, still viewed the general problem seriously enough to warn that "drastic action" will come out of Congress unless "unjustified" strikes and "labor racketeering" are stopped.

Norris, co-author with Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia of New York, of the Norris-LaGuardia act limiting the right of the federal courts to issue injunctions in labor disputes, said in an open letter to his constituents that some local unions had resorted to "intimidation" in getting fees out of job applicants.

While the veteran Senator decried labor "racketeering" he nevertheless said labor was being unfairly accused in connection with defense industry strikes.

The union's original demands included recognition of the CIO-UAW union, a 10-cent hourly wage rise and abolition of what they termed a "company spy system."

While peace was in sight for Ford, the United Automobile Workers International Union asked locals for authority to take a strike vote of 175,000 members in 76 General Motors plants.

The Southern soft coal operators who bolted the Appalachian joint wage conference and set up a separate organization called on the United Mine Workers (CIO) today to start immediate negotiations for a wage contract and announced their terms for resuming work pending such an agreement.

Their letter to UMW President John L. Lewis was delivered at 11 a. m. and three hours later they had received no reply.

In their leter to Lewis today, they proposed resumption of mining under extension of the old contract, except for the wage scale, until a new contract could be negotiated. The old contract expired April 10. As for wages, they proposed a raise of 60 cents a day and an equivalent boost for miners working on a tonnage basis.

EDWARDS SHELL VICTIM LOSES HAND

An Army investigating board today sought to determine circumstances of an odd accident in which a shell exploded in the hands of a Camp Edwards soldier, necessitating the amputation of his right hand and seriously injuring his face and legs.

The victim, Pvt. John M. Drab, of Main st., Spencer, was taken to Station Hospital, where physicians later reported his injuries would not prove fatal.

The soldier was working outside an ordnance warehouse at the military reservation. He picked up what he apparently thought was a dud shell of unknown size.

Maj.-Gen. Roger W. Eckfeldt, commanding the Yankee Division, appointed a board of three officers to probe the unusual accident. The board consists of Lieut.-Col. Joseph Bonneau, Lieut.-Col. Franklin B. Mitchell, and Lieut.-Col. John McKoan.

At the same time, it was announced that two officers there have been nominated by President Roosevelt to be promoted to the rank of brigadier-general.

They are Col. James I. Muir, commanding officer of the 26th Infantry Regiment, First Division, and Col. Henry C. Pillsbury due there today to take command of the Lovell General Hospital.

At both Ft. Devens and Camp Edwards, thousands of soldiers of Jewish faith left for their homes to observe the feast of the Passover.

At Camp Edwards, it was estimated that fully one-half of the men of the 26th Division have been granted week-end leaves to spend Easter with their families.

Holdup Suspect Held in $41,000

Bail equivalent to $41,000 was set today in Chelsea District Court in the case of a 29-year-old Charlestown man accused of holdups in Revere and Chelsea.

With both Revere and Chelsea police pressing charges against him, John Saul, of Mystic ave., married and the father of two, pleaded not guilty and was held for hearing April 23.

Revere police charged Saul as being one of four men who held up and robbed Mr. and Mrs. Max Litman in their Point of Pines home and taking money and jewels to a value of $400. Mrs. Litman allegedly identified Saul.

On the charge of burglary, Judge Paul J. McDonald set bail at $10,000 double surety. On a second charge, of carrying a loaded revolver, he set bail $1000, single surety.

Crowd Amused as Fire Box Snaps in Revere

Sgt. James Gray and Patrolman John Hannigan of Revere investigated a call that a truck had broken off a box alarm on Broadway, in front of City Hall, pushed through a crowd of laughing spectators.

They discovered the alarm box and standard on the ground. But it was not the wreck left by a truck. A man leaned against the alarm box, spectators said, and the post snapped off at the base.

Boy, 5, Badly Battered by Own Mother

NEW LONDON, N. H., April 12 (AP)—Five-year-old Leland Wiggin, whose face is a livid reminder of brutal beatings allegedly administer by his mother, will spend Easter in the hospital.

Dr. William Clough, Jr., who has cared for the boy since his injuries were uncovered recently by a relief investigator, said today Leland would not be released for five more days, and that his broken nose, battered lips and abrasions would be allowed to heal before plastic surgeons attempted to restore his features to normal again in about four months.

Leland will go to a private home or institution next week, and his mother, Mrs. Hazel Wiggin Crane, 40, now under a year's sentence for neglecting the boy, probably will go to the State Hospital for observation. County Solicitor Raymond Perkins said he would petition for her transfer from jail.

NEW COAST GUARD DETAIL TAKES OVER SEIZED SHIPS

Thirty-five Coast Guards from surf stations who have been standing watch over the five seized alien ships in Boston harbor were relieved today by an equal number from the Chelsea base.

The new detail is made up of trainees from the various Coast Guard stations and assigned to the Chelsea base. They are the first group in the country to be trained under the new "captain of the port" system.

By a recent order, Capt. Thomas A. Shanley, commandant of the First Coast Guard District, was appointed captain of the Port of Boston, in full charge of all harbor traffic and neutrality work.

Other harbors have had similar designations.

East Braintree Boy Felled by Stray Bullet

Russell Frazier, 14, of Newton ave., East Braintree, had a narrow escape today while picking pussywillows in the Braintree meadows, when a stray .22 caliber bullet struck him in the neck, missing the jugular vein by a fraction of an inch.

According to police, Frazier and a boy chum, Clinton Hennebury, 16, of Hillside rd., East Braintree, were in Pond Meadow when they heard a shot and Frazier felt a sting below the right ear.

Dr. Charles J. Charpinella, Braintree physician, found that a bullet had struck below the ear and penetrated the neck, although missing vital parts. He succeeded in removing the bullet. Police inquiry revealed that the bullet was from the rifle of Albert L. Seely, 22, of Commercial st., Braintree, who was target shooting in the woods nearby.

2 Million Razor Blades Needed By British Army

NEW YORK, April 12 (INS)—The British army needs 2,000,000 razor blades.

An appeal for blades made public by bundles for Britain revealed that the 2,000,000 blades, in addition to supplies on hand, will last the British army four months.

Production of blades in Britain has been greatly curtailed because of the need of steel in armament manufacture.

U. S. URGED TO WAR ON RENT GOUGERS

WASHINGTON, April 12 (INS)—Leon Henderson, head of the new office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply created by President Roosevelt to head off inflation, today was urged to place a ceiling on rents as well as food, clothing and basic industrial national defense materials.

Henderson threatened to use economic sanctions against 11 industries unless they maintain reasonable prices.

By economic sanctions Henderson said he meant withholding supplies by diverting them to other industries under priorities rulings.

Henderson revealed that his division was already watching prices in paper, textiles, steel, coal, drugs, chemicals, non-ferrous metals, building supplies, machinery, hides and leather.

WATCHING PRICES

Miss Harriet Elliott, head of the consumer division of the National Defense Commission, is watching prices in foods and retail clothing.

The consumers division of the National Defense Commission, which is being absorbed by the new agency headed by the hard-hitting Henderson, was alarmed over soaring rents particularly in boom industrial towns.

However, a survey indicated that Henderson first would be confronted with the problem of driving down prices of sugar, coffee and cotton textiles on the consumer front, and of preventing an undue rise in steel prices on the industrial front.

BROAD POWERS

Henderson was given broad powers to fix prices and allocate supply of both national defense and consumer goods even to commandeering plants or driving a firm out of business.

The former SEC commissioner, in warning against "ruthless profiteering" in one product needed as a substitute for zinc and nickel, threatened to take drastic action, saying:

"Should the action result in the elimination of dealers, they will have only themselves to blame."

Food prices, particularly on pork and beef products and butter and eggs, were reported as high as 19 to 25 per cent above a year ago. The problem of regulating these prices, it was explained, will become more acute as food supplies are shipped in Britain under the lease-lend bill.

1000 WPA Cut Brings Protest

Protests came today in the wake of the pre-Eastern announcement that some 1000 local WPA workers will be lopped off payrolls within the next 10 days.

The action, according to a new ruling from Washington, affects all WPA workers entitled to state unemployment compensation.

The new regulation was criticized by some men as a penalty on initiative and self-reliance of persons who quit WPA and found temporary work in private industry during the past year. One man protested:

"While men who have been continually on relief rolls for two or three years remain practically secure, fellows like myself who went out and got a job are now penalized for it."

Under the order, the men will be cut off the WPA rolls as part of a slash of 5300 in the April quotas.

FLOATING MINE SCARES WINTHROP

A floating mine bobbing 50 yards offshore at the foot of Hawthorne ave., Winthrop Beach, today brought hundreds of spectators to the rail along Winthrop Shore drive and spread alarm that a serious explosion was imminent.

Army officials dispatched a detail of soldiers to the scene to police the area and hold back spectators while efforts were made to recover the mine.

FOUND TO BE DUD

The soldiers routed a number of small boys who were pelting stones at the 3-foot black ball

Efforts of the soldiers to bring the mine ashore were futile as they lacked equipment to snare it. The Coast Guard was notified to send boats to the scene.

Eventually a large No. 6, painted in white, was observed on the mine and report of this to Ft. Banks brought word that the mine was a dud.

Army officials reported it was one of a number of practice mines which had broken loose from its moorings. It had originally been planted, officials said in the vicinity of Graves Light.

While the excitement was at its height, a detachment from the Coast Guard station at Nahant arrived with a surfboat. Under the direction of Benjamin Leonard, Boston's mate, 1st class, two guardsmen launched the boat, rowed out and made a line fast to the mine.

Pulling the mine in required the combined efforts of the Coast Guardsmen and a dozen soldiers. Beached, the mine was found to be of the 3-foot type, dragging 20 feet of metal cable and a large weight on the end. It was hauled up over the 10-foot seawall and hoisted into an Army truck and returned to Ft. Banks.

25 U. S. Film Stars Cheered In Mexico City

MEXICO CITY, April 12 (INS)—Twenty-five American movie stars on a good-will visit to Mexico were given a tumultous greeting upon their arrival at the Mexico City airport today.

A crowd of 15,000 cheering Mexicans broke their way through police reserves and toppled barriers to greet the visiting celebrities.

The crowd went wild when Norma Shearer, gowned in pink, stepped from the first plane.

Crowds surrounded Patricia Morrison and Brenda Marshall until police were able to force their way to rescue them. Another to be given a great welcome was Frank Morgan.

The huge crowd of Mexican fans had little difficulty recognizing their favorite American movie stars and each was soon surrounded by large crowds.

Javier Aojo Gomez, the governor of the federal district, welcomed the stars at an informal ceremony. He officially decreed them "guests of the Mexican government."

The actors and actresses were then entertained at a reception given by American Ambassador Josephus Daniels at the United States embassy.

Callahan Firm On El Charges

Timothy F. Callahan, Boston finance commission attorney, today confidently predicted that a probe of affairs of the Boston Elevated will substantiate his charges that the public has been overcharged $20,000,000 during the last 23 years.

At the same time Atty.-Gen. Robert Bushnell had no information available as to how soon he will answer Gov. Saltonstall's request for an opinion whether an accounting of Elevated affairs should be made.

"Our investigation was entirely objective and impersonal," Atty. Callahan said. "Our report was a most careful one. I feel absolutely sure it will be approved by any competent tribunal and I notice that even the trustees of the Elevated now think an accounting should be made. My work is now finished and it is up to the attorney-general to decide on what action should be taken."

Streets, Stores Jammed With Easter Shoppers

Shopping throngs swirled through the streets of downtown Boston today and literally stormed their way into stores in a gay holiday mood to do a bit of last minute buying as the weather man said "fair and warmer for Easter."

To handle pedestrian traffic, 45 extra policemen were on duty, principally in the neighborhood of Washington and Summer sts. However, added officers were generally required throughout the shopping district.

While this detail of older officers safeguarded foot traffic and strove to keep auto traffic on the move, rookies went about their work of tagging cars, or by their presence forcing away parkers who would clog the streets.

In the afternoon another detail of 10 men was ordered out to handle the crowds making their way into the Sox-Bees game at National League Park.

Through the subways feeding the heart of the city the story was much the same. Turnstiles clicked steadily and youngsters tagging along behind their parents set up a merry din as they headed for the stores and a new hat or bonnet.

Police officials said they had rarely seen anything like it at Easter. They said the lateness of the holiday and the excellent spring weather of today and that promised for tomorrow probably accounted for the immense jam.

ROME, April 12 (AP)—It was officially announced today that one of the British generals captured in North Africa by Axis forces is Maj.-Gen. Carton Dewiart, who commanded British troops in Central Norway a year ago.

Dewiart was a veteran of the World War, in which he was wounded eight times, losing an eye and an arm.

LONDON, April 12 (AP)—The war office announced tonight that Maj.-Gen. Carton Dewiart "has fallen into enemy hands whilst on his way to the middle east."

9 Palominos Perish As Fire Levels Stable

SOUDERTON, Pa., April 12 (AP)—Nine valuable Palomino horses, including a mare and a day-old foal, perished today in a fire that swept a stable on the estate of Paul Fisher near here.

Forty-six other horses were driven to safety, 15 of them by Fisher himself. The stable is one of the largest in the nation of the once almost extinct golden breed.

Lindy Approves Greenland Bases

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was quoted by the New York Herald Tribune today as saying that the government's action to set up defense bases in Greenland was a wise and logical move in Western Hemisphere protective strategy.

Lindbergh reiterated, said the newspaper, that Greenland's climate and topography made the island unusuable as an air or naval springboard for an invasion of North America from Europe and added that establishment of anything other than small American bases was neither practical nor necessary to protect Greenland from possible foreign efforts to gain a foothold there.

He also said flying conditions in Greenland would be among the most difficult in the world and that naval operations would be similarly handicapped because harbors were ice-locked most of the year.

Nazis Say Only 15 Killed in Berlin Raid

BERLIN, April 12 (INS)—Only 15 persons were killed in the British air attack on Berlin last Thursday night, the German radio announced today. British claims of 2000 to 3000 German casualties are sheer invention, the Nazi radio said.

HUB JEWRY MARKS FESTIVAL OF PASSOVER

Greater Boston Jewry today were observing the ancient festival of Passover, commemorating deliverance of Jews from Egyptian bondage.

The observance, which began at sundown last night, is to be observed eight days by the orthodox and seven days by the reform Jews.

Seder services were held in homes, synagogues and temples, with the traditional ceremonies and reunions, and the eating of matzoth, the unleavened "bread of affliction."

The observance, was made possible in some 3000 needy Jewish homes in this city by the United Moeth Chitim Ass'n, Passover relief agency of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies.

More than 30,000 pounds of matzoth and funds for the purchase of holiday necessities were distributed at the agency's district relief stations, according to Henry Friedman, president of the United Moeth Chitim Ass'n.

In addition to those aided at the district stations, checks were mailed to families which receive aid from the Jewish Family Welfare Ass'n, to meet the increased cost of special Passover foods.

Seder services will be held and special holiday foods served throughout the eight days of the Passover festival at hospitals and other institutions of the Associated Jewish Philanthropies. Ward patients at the Beth Israel Hospital will participate in special Seder services and holiday dinners will be served.

Special services and a congregational Seder were held at the Temple Sinai to commemorate the festival. Rabbi Beryl D. Cohen addressed his congregation and sounded a call for faith and hope. He said in part:

"Truth crushed to earth will rise again. The Panzer divisions can reduce cities to ashes; they cannot annul the will of God. And God is the God of right, who speaks to every tyrant, 'Let my people go that they may serve me.'"

Churchill Lauds Anzacs; Winant, Conant Honored

BRISTOL, England, April 12 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today that "Australian and New Zealand troops may be in contact with the enemy today in the classic land of Greece, fighting with the sons of Britain and playing an important part in the universal drama."

He spoke in the bomb-scarred University of Bristol as the chancellor of the university invested United States Ambassador John G. Winant and Australian Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies with honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws. A similar degree was conferred in absentia on Dr. James Bryant Conant, president of Harvard university.

In his speech conferring the degrees the Prime Minister said in part:

"I go about the country whenever I can escape for a few hours or days from my duty at headquarters and I see damage by the enemy's attacks, but I also see, side by side with the devastation and amid the ruins, glad, confident, bright and smiling eyes gleaming with consciousness of being associated with a movement finer, higher, wider, than any human or personal issues.

"That we should be assembled here, and gathered here in this way, is such a mark of fortitude and phlegm, of a courage, of a detachment from material facts worthy of all that we have learned to believe of ancient Rome or of modern Greece."

Of Winant, Churchill observed:

"He is a man whose whole life has been a preparation for a cause which he is now called upon, in a position of great responsibility and influence, to sustain.

"I must assure all of the strong feeling of the grandeur and imperishable character of our cause which association with him raises in my breast.

"He is interpreter of the great republic to us and he is our interpreter and friend sending back his messages across the ocean to them."

After receiving his degree Winant said:

"I shall always think first of the patience and character and courage of the people of Bristol."

GERMANS NOW IN RACE FOR SUEZ CANAL

SOFIA, April 12 (INS)—The race for Suez, vitally important link in Britain's imperial lifeline, has begun, military quarters in German-controlled Sofia declared today.

Whether the canal will be blitzkrieged out of Britain's control, these circles said, depends chiefly on three factors:

1—How long it will take the Germans to complete their "mopping up job" in the Balkans.

2—The number of troops the Axis powers can ferry from Sicily to Libya.

3—The attitude that Turkey will now adopt.

According to these quarters, if the Germans are to strike at Suez when British resistance is at its lowest point, the Reich must move within the next three weeks or a month at the longest.

Italy Pardons U. S. Couple

ROME, April 12 (AP)—King Vittorio Emanele III today pardoned George Ehret, formerly of New York, and Miss Grace Gunther, long-time American resident of Florence, who were convicted last November of illegal dealings in foreign exchange.

Both are expected to be released from prison shortly upon payment of their fines, 300,000 lire (about $15,000) for Ehret and 50,000 lire (about $2500) for Miss Gunther.

BRISTOL DEATH TOLL HIGH AFTER BOMBING

BRISTOL, Eng., April 12 (INS)—Bristol's death toll mounted steadily today after what residents called the "most savage and indiscriminate" attack the German Luftwaffe has yet visited upon this frequently-bombed port.

For the first time, the Germans used a new "repeat" technique, which multiplied the terror as well as the devastation of the attack.

For several hours waves of German bombers roared over Bristol, dropping innumerable bombs and incendiary flares by the thousands. Then came a lull, and Bristol residents thought their night of suffering was over.

Within a short time, however, the Germans came back in even greater numbers and subjected Bristol to a still greater blasting.

So great was the damage and death toll that Prime Minister Winston Churchill came to Bristol to inspect the destruction

He was accompanied by American Ambassador John G. Winant and Australian Premier R. G. Menzies.

Throughout the day rescue workers tore through the rubble in search of the dead and wounded, and all too frequently their efforts uncovered new fatalities.

The terrific anti-aircraft barrage thrown up by Bristol's defenses, it was generally believed, damaged a number of German aircraft. Nevertheless, most of the attackers penetrated to the heart of the city with their bomb loads.

Wide areas around Bristol also were bombed.

In Bristol the city hall, library, a motion picture house and two churches were gutted and numerous other structures were seriously damaged.

BRITISH SMASH 100 PANZER UNITS IN LIBYA

CAIRO, Egypt, April 12 (AP)—British and Australian air fighters destroyed or damaged nearly 100 vehicles in a Panzer column of German and Italian transport on the Tobruk-El Gazala road in Libya, the RAF announced tonight.

Many casualties were caused, it was said.

In a communique, the British air force declared 16 German fighting planes definitely were destroyed on the ground and a bomber was destroyed as it was attempting to take off. The total toll of Axis aircraft was put at 21.

British ground units are in contact with German and Italian forces west and southwest of Tobruk, but the engagement has not yet developed into a battle, reports from Libya said today.

Informed quarters here added that patrols on both sides were operating over a wide area west of the Libyan port, which the British still hold.

Throughout the 400-mile advance of Axis forces in the past three weeks the British have insisted they were merely withdrawing light covering forces to a concentration point where they could fight with "assuring success."

Today it appeared this second battle of Cirenaica would be fought on the rolling tableland between Tobruk and the Gebel El Achdar range "home grounds" for the British who know every water hole and gully in the area.

The German-Italian mechanized columns, now more than 800 miles from their base in Tripoli, were said to include several German armored divisions, strongly supported by aircraft.

Major Greek Battle Now Raging

and best battles in history, between the Greeks and English on one hand and the Germans on the other.

"We shall win this battle," he declared.

He urged them, in a radio address, to stand firm in "passive endurance" during the struggle and added that any failure to do so would "be treason against the Greek soldiers."

YUGOSLAVS WEAKEN

The clash in the Florina sector, occurring within a few miles of where the Greeks hurled back an Italian onslaught five months ago was the first Greek report of fighting against the Germans since the fall of Salonika Wednesday and apparently followed a weakening of Yugoslav resistance.

The German and Italian high commands last night announced the juncture of Italian troops from Albania and German troops moving westward across Yugoslavia north of Lake Ochrida not far from the Albanian border. This means that Yugoslavia is entirely cut off from Greece.

London dispatches said Yugoslavia Premier Gen. Dusan Simovic broadcast a declaration last night that "our troops are concentrating on main battle lines to check the enemy's advance" and asserted that "Germany's early successes cannot discourage us."—Editor's note.

Phlorina, 20 miles south of Bitolj, is the Greek terminus of a road leading to Koritza, Albania, scene of the Greeks' first big victory in their war against the Italians.

The Greek high command communique on the situation said merely:

"German motorized elements coming from the direction of Bitolj came in contact with our forces in the Florina district.

"On the Albanian front," it added, "there was restricted activity of patrols and artillery."

PIRAEUS POUNDED

The Luftwaffe, meanwhile, continued its steady pounding of the port of Piraeus in a four-hour raid during the night. A small steamer was said to have been sunk, but the Greeks said two Nazi bombers, and possibly a third, was shot down.

Athens had a four hour and five-minute night raid alarm as a result of attacks on coastal areas near the capital. Flaming balls of anti-aircraft fire burst high over the moonlit city.

Nazis Closing In On Slav Capital

BERLIN, April 12 (AP)—The German high command announced today that Nazi units are advancing "from several sides" toward Belgrade, Yugoslavia's capital, and in a march from the south have "broken enemy resistance in hard fighting."

Yugoslav resistance in Croatia has "collapsed under the pressure of the overwhelming and rapid advance of German forces," the high command declared, adding that the "Serbian northern army is dissolving."

Varazdin, Yugoslav town on the Hungarian border, has been occupied, the war bulletin said, and a Serb brigade surrendered with its commander to Germans advancing southward from there.

AXIS LINKS LINES

Linking of German and Italian lines in southern Yugoslavia north of Lake Ohrid was announced earlier by the high command. Radios blared the Deutschland hymn and the "England Song" this morning.

German and Italian troops, after joining their lines also in northwestern Yugoslavia, have started mopping up the Ljubljana basin, it was said.

Hungarian troops, the high command announced, crossed the Yugoslav border between the Drava and Theiss (Tisa) rivers.

In the southeast, the German air force was said to have been "especially successful" yesterday. Ten grounded Yugoslav planes were reported destroyed in raids on airports.

Bombing assaults on rail stations and transport trains in the same region were described as "effective."

Immediately after news came of the junction of German and Italian forces, Adolf Hitler telegraphed the following message to Premier Mussolini:

"At the moment when German and Italian units join hands for the first time in the Yugoslav theater of war I greet you most heartily."

DIVE BOMBERS ACTIVE

Stukas pounced on a "big accumulation" of Serbian troops in Croatia Friday, the Germans reported.

"The moral effect on the marching columns was so strong," said the official report," that contingents of troops which had not been wiped out spread white cloths on the ground and surrendered to German army units which followed."

In accordance with unofficial predictions that the Germans planned to batter British supply lines in Greece, the air force renewed attacks on the Salamis area. Authorized sources said preliminary reports showed a 3000-ton steamer was sunk and 33,000 tons of shipping space "heavily damaged."

British Deny Axis Claim 80,000 Greeks Captured

LONDON, April 12 (AP)—Reuters (British) News Agency reported a statement by a semi-official Athens news agency branding as "most exaggerated" reports that the number of Greek troops cut off and captured east of the Vardar River exceeded 80,000.

A German military spokesman said Thursday that Greek prisoners captured in Thrace numbered more than 80,000 and that the "final number will be much greater," since the count was not finished.—Editor's note.

"Foreign broadcast stations have announced Greek forces which were cut off to the east of Vardar river and capitulated exceeded 80,000," the Athens dispatch carried by the British agency said.

"Authorized circles here state these reports are most exaggerated and were given for tendentious reasons.

"It is pointed out that in every way Greek troops who were operating in this region carried out their duty and are worthy of universal admiration.

"They capitulated only because their left flank was turned and they found themselves suddenly uncovered because of the withdrawal of Yugoslav troops, which isolated them."

Slavs Stiffen, Prepare Stand for Big Battle

By DESIDER GELEJI

International News Service Staff Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN YUGOSLAVIA, April 12 (INS)—German forces have reached the Sava river in northern Yugoslavia and taken Zagreb (Agram), the Croatian capital, "without resistance," a Yugoslavian military communique reported today.

But authoritative quarters claimed Yugoslav troops had checked the German advance in Central Serbia at Krusavee after inflicting heavy losses on the Nazi blitzkrieg forces, and that several towns seized by the invaders had been recaptured.

The official military communique said:

"In the northern sector superior enemy forces reached the Sava river via Daruvar after the occupation of Yugoslavia.

"The enemy continued to make progress near Kragujevac, which also was occupied. German troops entered Zagreb without resistance from our troops.

"There were no events of importance in Albania."

According to the latest available information, some 170 or more German tanks were destroyed by Yugoslav troops in the first phases of the fighting. In addition, a German general was captured along with numerous other German prisoners and considerable quantities of war material.

A heavy battle was reported southwest of the Vardar valley railway city of Skolpje where Yugoslav forces staged a tremendous efort to halt the Nazi westward drive toward the Albanian border.

Germans Can't Win, Wallace Declares

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., April 12 (AP)—Vice-President Henry A. Wallace said today that it was a foregone conclusion that Great Britain with the material aid of the United States would win the war.

The Vice-President was here to address the stockholders' meeting of the Winston-Salem Federal Home Loan Bank tonight.

"The Germans just can't win," Wallace replied in answer to the question at a press conference. "Is the Administration worried by the turn of events in Greece and in Africa?"

"In the very nature of things, in view of the lies and deceit of the Nazis, the Germans will fail," he said. "It is a question of time."

Necessity for co-operation now between labor and management was indicated by the Vice-President as he declared that "industry and labor must show vastly increased production during the next three months."

First Lady Here For Wedding Of Niece

at the greatest possible speed. We seem to be getting nearer and nearer to that goal.

"The strike situation is not so bad. If we take all the hours of man labor lost from the defense program, we find there is a loss of only one-tenth of one per cent man labor hours in the year so far.

PRAISES NEW BOARD

"If you count it in figures, it sounds horrible, but in per cent it is not so much. And the new mediation board is doing a very fine job. I believe we are nearing the goal of solution, and nearing it automatically. Many differences have been settled without reaching the point of strike."

Our present defense program, Mrs. Roosevelt said, is not a program which leads to war.

"The defense program means all we can do to keep us out of war," she said.

Nor does Mrs. Roosevelt believe feasible any attempt to send our young soldiers to fight in Europe.

"Where would we land them?" she asked.

Mrs. Roosevelt's program, yesterday, was as varied and crowded as is her wont.

Before the wedding she went to the Navy Yard and there visited her son, Franklin D., Jr., going with him aboard the U. S. S. Mayrant, where he is stationed.

From the Navy Yard, she was driven to John Roosevelt's home, on Beacon st., Back Bay, by his wife, the former Anne Clark, and there had luncheon, young Franklin later joining them and attending the Dedham wedding in a family group. Franklin's wife, the former Ethel duPont, who has been staying at the Ritz-Carlton during the week, was also a member of the party.

DISCUSSES JIM'S MARRIAGE

Discussing the forthcoming marriage of her son, James, Mrs. Roosevelt reiterated her statement, already made in New York, that the marriage would be a civil ceremony and would not be performed by a Catholic priest. She also denied James had taken instruction with the intention of becoming a member of the Catholic church.

She said:

"This has to be a civil wedding because of certain religious reasons. I expect the ceremony will be on Monday."

Mrs. Roosevelt disclosed that this was the first time she would not preside over the egg-rolling at the official residence.

Mrs. Henry W. Wallace, wife of the Vice-President, will take her place, she said, shepherding the thousands of children, including a large contingent of British refugees now living in Washington.

Mrs. Roosevelt's plans call for her return to Washington by plane tonight and departure from there for the West coast tomorrow. Tuesday she is scheduled to lecture at Charlotte, S. C.

Braintree Village Nears Completion

A completed village of 60 homes, with finished streets, sidewalks, seeded and shrubbed lawns, is nearing completion at Colonial Village in Braintree.

The firm conviction of Laing Bros., well known builders and woodwork firm of East Braintree, that the buyer of a home in a development prefers knowing what the rest of the community will look like, has made possible this unusual "picture village."

BUILDERS WELL KNOWN

The Laing Bros. have a wonderful reputation for quality work. They number among their contracts many fine homes, public buildings, banks, stores and churches. They have a large woodworking and finishing plant at East Braintree. This plant is equipped with the latest and finest woodworking machinery. All the interior and exterior finish for these 60 homes was produced on this precision machinery, assembled and given two coats of paint in the factory and then taken to the village and installed. In this way Laing Bros. is able to offer to buyers of these low-cost homes the same high quality of material and workmanship that would go into large and expensive homes.

Chas. W. Laing

EIGHT TYPES OF HOMES

A succession of surprises awaits the home seeker who visits Colon 1 Village. The sight of 60 nearly completed homes will certainly prove fascinating. There are eight different types of homes, containing from four to six rooms. One home of each type near the village office, has been completely furnished and is open for inspection daily. In this way, the home buyer can see how the home looks when furnished, and select the one that he or she prefers, and subsequently pick that home or a similar home in a different location in the village.

VERY LARGE LOTS

The streets are unusually wide and all the houses have a beautiful set-back. The homes are well spaced apart, the lots ranging from 7500 ft. to 22,000 ft. The home owner with garden ambitions can find plenty of lots with ample land in which to indulge them.

These 60 Cape Cod and colonial homes are from four to six rooms. All are equipped with full dry cellars, oil burners, year-round automatic hot water supply, garages (wire lathed and plastered), many have breezeways. Those homes with all rooms on one floor, have finished stairs to second floor, where spacious rooms can be finished off later, if needed. Even the steam riser heating pipes are installed to be ready for use when needed. Special engineering was employed to install an excellent and complete drainage system to make certain that every cellar will be bone dry winter and summer. There are fireplaces in all living rooms and every kitchen has a chimney flue connection.

ALL CONVENIENCES

The Laing Bros. are justifiably proud of this community. Their ability to buy all material at rock bottom prices, co-ordinated with their factory set-up, enables them to offer these finely constructed and finished homes.

The village will soon be completely seeded and shrubbed, trees planted, streets and sidewalks finished. A grammar school adjoins the site, with no thoroughfare for the children to cross. Stores, churches and other schools are near by. Transportation facilities are excellent. Adams st. playground is close to the village.

Colonial Village can be reached most easily by going to Braintree sq. and turning down Elm st. until reaching Adams st. Adams st. leads directly to the property.

This is the seventh in a series of stories about interesting housing developments around Boston. Next Saturday's Record and American will tell about "Silver Sands," Humarock.

Comics Solve Child Problems

ATHENS, O., April 12 (AP) — Newspaper comic strips, once targets of severe criticism by American educators, now are being used effectively in diagnosis and treatment of the "problem child."

By having "problem" children play "author" and direct the activities of their favorite cartoon characters, Ernest A. Haggard and Helen Sargent of Northwestern University's psychological clinic said they often were able to discern causes of delinquency after other efforts had failed.

"As the child directs the comic characters himself, it is often possible to uncover difficulties of family and child-group maladjustment, which youngsters could never be persuaded to discuss," Haggard declared in a report prepared for the Midwestern Psychological Ass'ns convention today at Ohio University.

"Frequently, in this comic strip game the child unwittingly reveals just what conditions in his home life he thinks should be changed, or what troublesome problems his playmates are creating for him," Haggard asserted.

One child, jealous of other youngsters in the family, was found to eliminate all rivals from the plots of his cartoon story, Haggard said. Another disclosed a thirst for revenge.

Children with frustrated ideas selected heroes who bowled over all opposition in surmounting difficulties, often linking themselves so closely with their favorite character that they used "I" in unfolding the story instead of the comic hero's name, Haggard found.

DEFENSE DRIVE BRINGS HUGE BUILDING BOOM TO SOUTH SHORE

100 Homes Underway

If the modern Rip Van Winkle were to awaken today and drive down the South Shore he would probably be even more astonished than the one of the Catskills. Just imagine arriving at the entrance of a real estate development with hundreds of men working on 100 homes all being built at one time. Or seeing a completely modernized development of 60 homes, with streets, sidewalks, etc., all finished before any public announcement. And what an imposing sight to see thousands of automobiles of all makes and descriptions standing idly by while their owners engage in skilled labor in a defense center. All these are only a small part of the hum of activity that is rapidly making the South Shore tremendously interesting as a place to live.

Quincy, the business center, and the nearest city to Boston, is repeatedly referred to as the "fastest growing city in Massachusetts." From the years of 1935 to 1939, the retail section of Quincy increased more than 46 per cent, and the average wages for retail employes are second only to Boston.

The spacious parking lot behind the business establishments has proven a distinct help to Quincy's business. All the neighboring towns including Braintree, Weymouth, Hingham, etc., are enjoying a recurrence of a boom that they thought was all finished some time ago.

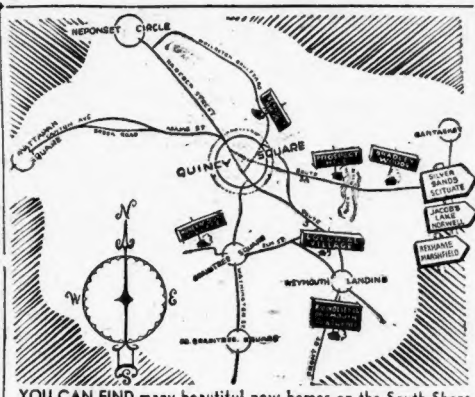
Recreational features abound in all of these sections with many lakes and rivers to be found in Plymouth County. Fresh water fish, deep sea fishing, trout streams, bass, etc., make the South Shore a fisherman's paradise.

There are now five yacht clubs in Quincy alone, with other beautiful spots dotting the coast line all the way to the Cape. Within three minutes of Quincy, a cosmopolitan group of business and professional men have organized the Rod and Gun Club with a clubhouse overlooking a lake and grounds consisting of 32 acres. Hundreds of historical sights are to be seen all through the South Shore. Birthplace of Presidents, the Plymouth Rock and many other interesting spots, the entire section seems to breathe important historical events.

The South Shore has now gained a national reputation as a national defense center. The Fore River shipyards now employ 14,000 men and are expected to add 8000 more within a short time. The Quincy Adams yacht yard is working on two new Navy boats and Procter and Gamble plant and the Bethlehem steel works are away ahead of estimated production.

World-wide economic difficulties accompany and follow war. This is a rule which never changes. But land retains its value, and even through inflation it becomes increasingly valuable. It is a form of wealth that cannot be dissipated.

Private capital is making an earnest and concentrated endeavor to care for the influx of new inhabitants to the South Shore. New developments are springing up almost overnight. Nearly all these developments are being conducted by experienced builders who are extending themselves to the utmost to handle this embryo building boom. Summer developments are an integral part of this urge for "own your own home" and the serious minded, wide-awake New Englander of today may be sure that real estate men are keenly interested in the building of a far flung, carefully presented series of communities all known as the "South Shore."



YOU CAN FIND many beautiful new homes on the South Shore by following this map.

Painters Hear Grossman Talk

Valerie Parks Heads Old Howard's New Bill

Bringing the latest steps in burlesque dancing, Broadway's Valerie Parks comes to the Old Howard on Monday as the star of the new revue, "Peek-A-Boo."

Miss Parks is a favorite throughout the traveling burlesque circuit, where Jo-Ann Carroll, a new charmer in the "Peek-A-Boo" cast will be from all accounts of the exotic brand of dancing she is introducing in her initial Boston bow.

Sally O'Day, described as a Southern beauty the highly recommended ballroom dance team of Ruthania and Malcom; Jack and Adele Martin, another dancing act; Smith, Rogers and Eddy, dancing comedians from Hollywood, and a tramp comic self-titled Sir Cecil Alexander are other featured performers in the new show.

John Barry and Harlem's "Dusty" Fletcher head the company's clowning division, which includes a varied and dependable group of comics.

"Rubberneck" Williams, Wen Miller, Lili Lang, Bernie Miller and Collette LeBeau round out the large cast.

On the screen, there will be shown "Real Glory," co-starring Gary Cooper and Andrea Leeds, and "Shooting High."

VALERIE PARKS, favorite with Old Howard patrons, returns there on Monday as the star of the "Peek-A-Boo" revue.

"HOLLYWOOD TODAY," by Louella O. Parsons, noted filmland authority, appears regularly in the Boston Evening American.

'Rose Marie,' One of Stage's Top Musicals, Opens Mon.

"Rose Marie,' immortal musical comedy which returns to Boston on Monday night, at the Shubert Theater, has indeed had a long and profitable history. It is one of the few pieces produced on the American stage which has demonstrated itself as perennially popular.

"Rose Marie" originally opened in Atlantic City in August of 1924, and thence moved to the Imperial Theater, New York, on Sept. 2, 1924.

Then came the first Boston engagement at the Shubert Theater here where the musical comedy opened on April 13, 1925, and played until July 25, 1925, or a total of 15 weeks. Thence and at once the production was moved to the Majestic Theater here where it opened on July 27, 1925, and played until Oct. 26, 1925, which was another 15-week run. It returned to the Shubert Theater here in 1926 for two weeks. Its last engagement in the Hub was at the Boston Opera House for two weeks in 1927.

Tops Olympia Bill

"Strawberry Blonde," which reproduces the gay nineties with its tempo stepped up by the streamlined comedy of James Cagney, Olivia DeHavilland and Rita Hayworth, must be seen at the Washington St. Olmypia if you've missed it. Also continuing through next Saturday is the co-feature, "Footsteps in the Dark."

Globe Fans Laud Charmaine's Art

Statuesque, stunning Charmaine, whose "vibrator dancing charms" inspire the Globe's press agent to make comparisons with "the rippling languornusness of Egypt's Nile," completely capitivated the opening-day audiences.

She may be statuesque, but there her likeness to the marbled Junos ends, as the mesmerized customers will assure you.

Nor is she the only captivating member of her traveling burlesque troupe, which boasts none other than the "aristocrat of the burlesque charm school," Ilka De Cave, from down Buenos Aires way; the eyetaking Mexican jumping-bean, Vilma Jozey, the 30 Bernardolis in new aspectacular dance routines and other lovlies.

The week's comedy king is Looney Lewis, who makes goofiness a fine art. His aides include Molly Leslie, Little Jack Little, Edward Kent, Harry Ryan and Irving Benson. The vaudeville features include Marion Young and Leonard Lawrence, vocalists.

Crosby, Lamour, Hope Thrill All

Neither spring nor Holy Week have hampered business at the Metropolitan Theater, where Paramount's new musical comedy, "Road to Zanzibar," reunites Bing Crosby, Bob Hope and Dorothy Lamour.

So well are Met audiences liking "Zanzibar" that it is being held over through Wednesday.

This unbeatable box-office trio of Crosby, Hope and Lamour, first teamed in "Road to Singapore," are due to blend their talents a third time in the forthcoming "Road to Moscow." They'll doubtless work their way around the world—via Partmount's artfully contrived sets, of course—if their future teaming evokes such clamorous huzzahs as have "Singapore" and "Zanzibar."

Though it is a successor to "Singapore," "Zanzibar" is no sense its sequel. The current screen comedy introduces Hope and Crosby as a pair of carnival men barnstorming through Africa, trying to raise enough pienza to get back home.

Bing thinks up the side-show stunts and the unhappy Hope performs them, these stunts including being shot out of a cannon, electrocuted and frozen alive. The Lamour, who has turned in her sarong for fetching fern draperies, almost cuts their brotherly love in twain. Una Merkle and Eric Blore have the chief supporting roles.

Victor Scherlzinger directed and Johnny Burke and Jimmy van Heusen wrote the songs—"It's Always You," "Birds of a Feather," "You're Dangerous," "You Lucky People, You" and "African Etude."

The co-feature, "Dead Men Tell," is another in the Charlie Chan series, this time having the Orient's super-sleuth out to solve the mystery of buried South Sea treasure.

WHY SO SERIOUS, BOB?—Yes, it's the screen's star comic, Mr. Hope, and Dorothy Lamour and the scene is from "Road to Zanzibar," staying over at the Metropolitan through Wednesday.

Barton's Career Covers World

John Barton is one of the few American actors ever to have appeared before the late King Edward VII and Queen Alexandra. Barton and his wife, Anne Ashley, were headliners at a Command Performance at the Coliseum, London, in an all-star vaudeville bill.

Coming to the Plymouth Monday as Jeeter Lester in "Tobacco Road," Barton is one of the most traveled actors in his profession. He has made two world tours in vaudeville, playing in South Africa, Australia and India. He was also one of the first stage stars to appear in films.

Local Artists Win Awards

Two Greater Boston artists have been cited for honorable mention in the national Ziegfeld Girl contest sponsored by the Art Students' League of New York and inspired by the M-G-M musical extravaganza, "The Ziegfeld Girl," soon to be shown at Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters. They are Mary Hillson, 84 Fuller st., Brookline, and Marguerite Eichorn, 251 Fuller st., Dorchester.

Such outstanding illustrators as James Montgomery Flagg, John La Gatta, Raeburn Van Buren and Heyworth Campbell and the league's Robert Hale comprised the board of judges.

'Fantasia' Price Cut for Students

Endorsed by educational leaders, Walt Disney's "Fantasia" has been made available at half-price admission to all students over 16 years of age within a 25-mile radius of Baston.

In the grouping are those attending public and private schools, including high schools, preparatory schools, music and drama schools and colleges.

Because of its many educational and cultural features, "Fantasia" has been almost unanimously hailed as an ideal motion picture for students in general. Walt Disney and his company's executives are cooperating by making it possible for the small-budgetted student to see "Fantasia," which goes into its twelfth week at the Majestic on Monday.

Adult student tickets have been distributed to headmasters within the prescribed area. Headmasters and deans within the 25-mile radius who have not as yet received their quota of students' tickets may obtain them by telephoning or writing the boxoffice

By BETTY ALDEN

IT ISN'T EVERY BRIDE who can boast of wedding presents from the President of the United States and his family, so Eleanor Roosevelt of Dedham can be pardoned if she beams with a little extra pride in pointing out the beautiful sterling silver tea tray, tea kettle and vegetable serving dish which occupy a prominent place among her wedding gifts . . . They are gifts from her uncle and aunt Mr. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt . . .

Today is Eleanor's wedding day . . . At four o'clock in St. Paul's Church, Dedham, she becomes the bride of Edward Procter Elliott, son of Mrs. A. S. Elliott of Yorkshire, England . . . The bride is the daughter of Mrs. John Cutter of Dedham and Mr. C. Hall Roosevelt of New York, who is a brother of the First Lady . . .

Easter lilies, ferns and candles form a dignified setting for the ceremony which is being performed by Rev. Thomas H. Chapel . . . Henry Roosevelt is giving his sister in marriage . . .

The bride's gown of cream color velvet was designed and made by students at the Boston Girl's Trade School, who also made a number of her trousseau gowns as well as the dress in which she made her Washington debut at a ball at the White House several winters ago . . .

The gown is made with a fitted basque waist embroidered with seed pearls and crystal beads, and the long flaring skirt ends in a three yard train . . . Her veil of heirloom rose point lace falls from a Juliet cap of interlaced folds of velvet embroidered with pearls . . . She is carrying a bouquet combining white stephanotis and blue larkspur . . .

Gray and yellow forms the picturesque color scheme of the maid of honor and six bridesmaids . . . Amy Roosevelt of Birmingham, Michigan, the maid of honor, is wearing Jonquil yellow taffeta with a wreath of fresh yellow flowers in her hair and carrying a bouquet of spring flowers . . . The bridesmaids are wearing similar gowns in pearl gray taffeta with yellow wreaths and bouquets of yellow spring flowers . . . In the bevy of bridesmaids are the Misses Jessica Stevens of Westwood, Beatrice Talbot, Natalie Coolidge and Priscilla Sprague of Brookline, Nancy B. Wilcox of Detroit, and Suzanne Chapman R. Mahway, N. J. . . .

Bride's Mother Wears Blue and Gray

RECEIVING WITH THE BRIDAL couple at the reception at the Dedham Country and Polo Club, Mrs. Cutter, mother of the bride, is wearing an ensemble of blue and gray, with a wine hat . . . Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt flew on from Washington for the wedding and is leaving immediately after for the West Coast to attend the marriage of her son, James . . .

Theodore Luderowski of New York is attending the bridegroom as best man, and the ushers are John Roosevelt, Elliott Richardson, Arthur T. Lougee and Wilbur Keller of Boston, Vito Girone of Orange, N. J., Eero Saarinen of Cranebrook, Mich., and James Simpson of New Burn, N. J. . . .

The newlyweds will spend their honeymoon on a motor trip, and will live wherever Edward's work as an architect on national defense takes him . . .

Marjie's good news is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Edward Watts, at an Easter tea at their Canton ave. home . . . The bride-to-be attended Boston University and studied Fine Arts in Europe and at Harvard Summer School . . . At the time of the Coronation of King George and Queen Elizabeth she attended the ceremonies and later travelled extensively in England, Scotland and France . . .

She is a granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Watts (Lucy Wakefield) of Surrey, England of Mrs. Edward Fry of Boston and the late Mr. Melvin Goulding of Dover . . .

Gordon, the son of Mrs. Everett Brownell Sherman and the late Mr. Sherman of New Bedford, graduated from Tabor Academy . . . There are no immediate plans for the wedding . . .

Rare Sale of Fine Perfumed, Natural Eau de Cologne

By ARLINE GOULD

DON'T be an "I wish I dunnit" . . . when the shower, birthday, and porch-bridge season opens . . . and you're besieged by the necessity of giving small but nice gifts in all directions . . . and you haven't had the foresight to put in a supply of half-price sale perfumed cologne that's taking place right now!

Mistake it not . . . this isn't "sale merchandise" . . . this is a fine $1 cologne . . . with the stamp of a fine house upon it . . . but more than that behind it is downright genius in concocting fragrances that are utterly desirable, that are fresh and cooling for summer days as mountain streams . . . and this cut to 50c is a rare event . . . just in time to anticipate your summer needs.

Eau de cologne is a wonderful cooling, refreshing thing in the summer because of its special ingredients . . . so don't forget that whatever the "fragrance" you buy . . . the citric, clean scent of its base is there. Men like it very much!

Then there is a rarely delicate and sweet "mountain laurel," and a subtle "blue iris" that's the equal of many a sophisticated perfume.

If you'd like shopping information on this sale of fine perfumed and natural eau de cologne . . . you may order by mail or phone . . . phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A New Figure For Spring

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By IDA JEAN KAIN

The only way to reduce the size of the bust is to reduce the weight generally. And the only way to improve the contour of this measurement is through exercise to tone the supporting muscles.

With excessive weight, there may appear to be an abnormal infiltration of fat in this area for the tissues are very susceptible to fatty deposit.

Excessive weight increases the tendency of the tissues to sag, and as weight is removed, it is very important to tone skin and muscles. The specific measures are the application of cold water and exercises. Many famous beauties make a daily practice of dashing cold water over throat, chest and bust to maintain skin tone.

Excellent exercises are those in which the arms are circled or swung backward or sideward from the shoulders. That's why the back and breast strokes in swimming are such highly esteemed beauty measures. Holding the arms high overhead elevates the chest and exercises taken on a stretching bar also tend to raise the bust contour.

Whether the bust is normally broad and flat or broad and full, or low and narrow or high and rounded, the weight and the tonicity in skin and muscles can vary the contour from its normal.

Another important factor is vitality. Usually the thin girl with a slight bust has a low vitality in addition to underdeveloped chest muscles, poor body tone and a slumped posture. She needs a general health program of outdoor exercise and a good diet, along with a few specific exercises.

When the bust is naturally small, however, the use of a bit of padding in the brassiers will give the desired fashionable line.

Monday—Why housework is not exercise.

Beauty in Chains

WITH CLOTHES more classically simple than ever before . . . a great deal of importance is put on costume jewelry . . . and with your choice of it, you can make a basic frock into a neat, business-like affair or a very gala "Don't dress for dinner" type. This last is the purpose of the stunning necklace and bracelet made of myriad strands of plastic chains. This is definitely not a bauble to be worn to the office! The tremendous bib-like effect is amazingly light because of the clever, featherweight plastic use. That's a sure fire conversation piece! It's designed by Clifford Furst in pastel shades and tortoise shell, to work in with any color combination.—ANNICE BRINK.

Listen, World! -:- -:- By Elsie Robinson

EVER consider how strong some other human really was? How reliable in an emergency? How much of a record he'd probably make in life? There's a way of telling. An infallible test—

JUST WATCH HOW HE ACTS WHEN HE'S IN THE WRONG.

Never mind his charm at other times . . . his seeming courage and shrewdness, strength and popularity. Wait until he's blundered—gone to sleep on some job and been caught with the goods—

THEN CHECK HIS REACTION.

For that reaction will reveal to you the caliber of that human, and his chances of success, more surely than the smart psychiatrist.

WHAT'S his (or her) first thought when caught in a jam? Is he concerned for the work he was supposed to do—worried over the damage he may have done or the trouble he may have caused those with whom he's associated.

Well—maybe he isn't as noble as all that. Few of us are. But how about his attitude toward himself? Will he frankly admit he's at fault and take the blame, like a good sport? Or is he one of those people who can "never be wrong"? Is he instantly ready with an excuse or prepared to pass the buck to the other fellow?

Then—after the thing's over how does he act? Make a clean sweep of it—do his best to repair damages—then call it a day and start over? Or does he add the incident to his everlengthening list of Secret Grudges 'n' Grievances—and seize upon it as one more reason for Being Sorry For Himself—and go around saying how everybody's picking on him?

INTERESTING angles—you've noticed them yourself in dealing with humans, haven't you? How differently they take things. How one man will take the ups and downs gamely, get over them graciously, while the other fellow treats them as Major Catastrophes.

But why—you wonder—should this be an infallible test of a human being's character and a sign of whether he'll make good or take the count?

Because a man's reaction to blame isn't merely the proof of how he feels about himself—it's the proof of how he feels about the whole world . . . about his fellow man . . . about life itself.

WE'RE AS BIG AS OUR OWN ABILITY TO GIVE AND TAKE . . . AND OUR SUCCESS OR FAILURE DEPENDS ON OUR ABILITY TO GET OUT OF OUR OWN WAY.

Salad Bar Latest

By MARTHA LEE

Looking for something new in salad ideas? How about a Salad Bar, where you set out greens, fruits, vegetables, dressing materials and let your guests toss their own? Or wh not a serving of a "Basic Salad" (greens, grapefruit and dressing for each salad eer) with all manner of extras on hand to add to this master pattern?

A new version of the favorite salad bowl is to put all the good things into the big bowl and provide little bowls into which each fellow can put his portion, then choose any one of several dressings-to-taste.

Salads are here to stay, thus you might as well add these bright ideas to your salad collection:

TOSSED FRUIT SALAD

1 pkg. (1½ cups) quartered dates
1 cup diced celery
1 cup pineapple wedges
1 cup strawberries
4 tbsp. creamy fruit dressing
Salad greens

Mix all ingredients together except salad greens. Toss lightly; arrange on lettuce or other greens.

CREAMY FRUIT DRESSING

Blend 2-3 cup sugar and 2 tbsp. flour in double boiler; add 2 beaten eggs, 2 tbsp. cooking oil, juice of 1 lemon, juice of 1 orange, and 1 cup pineapple juice. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Cool, fold in 1 cup whipped cream.

TONGUE AND POTATO SALAD

1½ cups diced cooked potatoes
2-3 cup diced celery
½ cup thinly sliced sweet pickles
2 hard-cooked eggs diced
½ cup mayonnaise
1 tsp. salt
6 whole peppercorns, crushed
1½ tsp. prepared mustard
1½ tsp. bottled horseradish
6-oz. jar sliced, smoked tongue, diced

Combine potatoes, celery, pickles, and eggs. Blend mayonnaise and seasonings. Add to potato mixture and toss lightly with a fork. Add tongue. Chill and serve garnished with chicory, lettuce or watercress. Makes 6 servings.

GRAPEFRUIT PERFECTION SALAD

1 envelope plain, unflavored gelatin
1-3 cup water
2 cups grapefruit sections
¼ cup vinegar
¼ cup sugar
1 tsp. salt
1 pimento, choped
2-3 cup finely shredded cabbage
Lettuce
Mayonnaise

Sprinkle gelatin on water. Drain grapefruit. Het juice. Add to softened gelatin. Stir until dissolved. Add vinegar, sugar and salt. Chill until syrupy. Fold in pimiento with grapefruit sections and cabbage. Put into 6 individual molds; chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce and serve with mayonnaise. Makes 6 servings.

Hot breads of one kind or another always make delicious accompaniments for salads. Have you ever tried these muffins?

BRAN MUFFINS

2 tbsp. shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup all-bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup flour
½ tsp. salt
2½ tsp. baking powder

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Add bran and milk; let soak until most of the moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans 2-3 full and bake in moderate oven (400 deg. F.) about 30 minutes. Makes 8 large muffins (3 inches in diameter) or 12 small muffins (2¼ inches in diameter).

THIS powerful picture grips your attention, stirs your imagination, makes you think.

Suppose you had seen your Saviour nailed to the cross, witnessed His slow and extremely painful death, watched His lifeless body placed in the tomb.

Suppose you had lived through a seemingly endless night of doubt, fear and dread foreboding, during which you many times asked yourself:

"Will He rise from the dead, as He said He would? Will He really come back?"

Suppose you had returned to the burial place at sunrise, hoping for the best but hardly daring to expect it, and were suddenly met by the Son of God, triumphant over death, miraculously alive.

Then you know the supreme joy of the first Easter morning.

ANOTHER EASTER approaches, and you too have opportunity to find God.

You may not be able to visit the scene of the Crucifixion or to go to the tomb in which Christ's body was placed.

But you can go to your neighborhood church.

You can bow your head in humiliation, lift up your heart in gratitude, thank God for His eternal Goodness, and strive with new courage and effort to deserve it.

The words of hope and inspiration you will hear from the pulpit of the mighty cathedral on the hill or from the altar of the tiny chapel around the corner are divinely inspired words.

If you listen to them and pattern your daily life after them, you will not oppress your fellow men; you will not cheat or steal or bear false witness; you will not deceive or be unworthy of trust or respect.

Your salvation lies not on the bayonet-bristling, body-strewn, blood-soaked battlefield; not in the service of men fighting for economic supremacy; not in the hateful conflict of employer and employe; not in the futile blunderings of false leaders who have forgotten God and all He represents.

Your salvation lies in the ideals He, the Son of God, gave His life to preserve for you.

GO TO CHURCH tomorrow; that is the message of Easter, the challenge of the Saviour risen from the tomb.

The Easter Parade is not important, but your church is important.

Enter it and find peace.

Be glad with the ringing of the bells.

Attune your soul to the organ's sweetness, sounding the praises of the Host of Hosts.

RISE UP IN SPIRIT.

REACH THE HEIGHTS YOU WERE MEANT TO REACH.

LET CHRIST'S RESURRECTION BE YOUR RESURRECTION.

HOW ARE YOU doing on your "reading up" on places and people figuring in the war news? I am far behind on mine. I don't think I will get started on my Balkans "reading up" until the Fourth of July. In fact, I am just starting on Japan. Last night I went through a two-hour grueling "reading up" session on the Japanese. I didn't concentrate enough, I guess, because all I can remember I read is that Geisha girls now play golf with their clients; that a yen is worth about a quarter; that a Japanese traffic cop gets equivalent of about seven dollars a week; that a Japanese factory worker thinks he is getting a wonderful break if he only has to work 14 hours a day and that the Japanese have a saying, "What do the great and powerful care for rights that have no armies"

FLATTERY: In a recent "How to get a Man" essay, Kathleen Norris advised: "Flatter the brute." Possibly good advice. But to get a smart fellow, the flattery has to be subtle. The overworked "I think you're so wonderful," "You are SO different from the other men I know," "aren't you strong," etc., line of flattery no longer clicks with the male majority. Most effective type of flattery is the flattery which expresses itself in actions rather than words. But when all is said and done, this department maintains if a girl wants to get a regular fellow to have and to hold there is no substitute for SINCERITY.

SIDELIGHTS: In writing "Airy, Fairy Lilian," Tennyson sanctioned the one "L." This makes it official. All two "L" Lillians should now discard an "L." Have you a spaniel, sir? What can you do to prevent such a dog getting dry grass or similar things in his ears when he runs through a field? Am always taking my pup to the veterinarian's to have something removed from his ear. Maybe I'll make him wear some mosquito netting around his head . . . "To decide a bet what is the highest number of children it is possible for a woman to have during her lifetime?" writes a Baltimore reader. Certainly seem to be betting on some quaint things in Baltimore. I asked a doctor this question and he said: "Oh, about thirty-five."

CONFIDENTIAL: Seem to always have a match when I want it now. Also a pencil But I can never find an ash tray. It's always something. "Why is it married women who ask for little get even less, and women who ask for a lot get even more?" inquires a Detroiter. Lady I really don't know. I asked Hype Igoe, and he didn't know either. All I can say is I remember a saying: "The wheel that does the squeaking is the wheel that gets the grease." Evidently the general opinion of the wise women is that it is a mistake to ask for too little from your husband. . . . A college professor who is working on a "Re-written version of the Bible says he is now re-writing the Twenty-Third Psalm. That is certainly "painting the lily." I like the Bible as it is: especially the Twenty-Third Psalm.

TELLS GIRLS HOW TO GET HUSBANDS

-:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, FRIDAY — Yesterday noon I spoke on a broadcast which is being inaugurated by the Friends of Children, Inc. Once a week they will broadcast an American play for children. It will go by shortwave not only to British children, but to other children throughout the world.

Up to this time, the Friends of Children, Inc., have been sending boxes of clothes to children in England, but they felt that there was need for a message which would interest the children themselves and tie them closer to children in this country. I hope that this program will give a great deal of pleasure to the children overseas.

In the afternoon we went to the Press Photographers' Ass'n sixth annual photo exhibit. I can only say I wish I could spend more time looking at these photographs.

They have a very good and amusing one of the President in a perplexed and reflective state of mind. Many other notables look down upon you from the walls. The color photographs are very beautiful, and the sports photographs, taken with a new type of camera, which takes people in action, are some of the most extraordinary I have ever seen.

WE GATHERED up our bags and I took a train to Philadelphia at 4 o'clock and drove to Swarthmore. I had dinner at the college and spoke afterwards under the auspices of the Swarthmore Student Union. My only previous tie with Swarthmore was through Miss Josephine Truslow-Adams of their art department. I happen to have one of her paintings, which I much enjoy.

President Nason and three students drove me to the airport, where my friend, Miss Mayris Chaney, met me. We boarded the plane at 11:25 for Washington, on which we found Mrs. David Levy and Mr. Morris Troper of the Joint Distribution Committee, who were coming down here in the interest of the work of that committee.

AND NOW to finish Dame Crowdy's letter:

"That reminds me that last week I was in Bristol and the Lord Mayor asked me if I had ever met you or the President. When I said: 'Yes,' he said: 'If you ever write to Mrs. Roosevelt, will you tell her that the thing which has cheered the children of Bristol is that not only the grown-ups, but the children of the four Bristols of America are thinking about them.' He has evidently had much kindness from your Bristols."

In the Fall, when his daughter, the 17-year-old Lois Andrews, expects her baby, Gourley will become a soldier grandfather . . . "Don't make any pockets in the suit" . . . "No pockets?" asked the tailor. "Then how will you carry things—like money?" . . . "You forget," Gogarty reminded, "I'm a writer."

Fante took the book, and opened the first page. It bore the marks of an old faded rubber stamp, "Public Library."

LAST SATURDAY the Konigswusterhausen station in Berlin broadcast the tune of "Tea for Two," followed by a parody of the lyrics, which began: "Oh, how strong, is Ger-ma-ny. Just ask for it.'" Nicaragua's chief declared. "And to think that I, who used to be such a crack auto salesman, made such a mistake" . . . "What mistake" asked Gunther . . . "I asked," sighed Somoza, "for only two million dollars."

BOSTON After DARK

Punch-Hitting for Vacationing George Holland

RUMBLINGS from the Suffolk County courthouse are topped by the talk of reports made by several citizens to Miss Florence Birmingham (premier opponent of wives who work when their husbands also are employed) about a woman . . . Who is working as matron at a school, where she makes $3.50 a day . . . She was No. 2 on the civil service list, and was appointed over the list leader . . . The woman's husband is a county employe, and highly paid . . . (and even if he lost his job, he wouldn't have to go on the WPA).

OTHER BOILINGS come from the fact that Charles M. Davenport (the dyed-in-the-wool Republican chairman of the Courthouse Commission) just appointed two new janitors . . . The men were appointed to regular jobs over the heads of the workers employed on a day-to-day basis, which stirred up a little feeling . . . And also, they were NOT from the list of employes fired by missing Sheriff John F. Dowd; despite the fact that the Bar Association made up a list of the names of the men and women fired by Dowd (for failure to pay off to hold their jobs) and recommended they be given first consideration . . . One of the men fired has lost a hand and hasn't worked since he left the courthouse

ALSO, NO ACTION has been taken on the report turned in by Bar Association investigators revealing that a number of employes in the building have criminal records . . . The report was made following a series of thefts in the courthouse.

INCIDENTALLY, the court officers association up there has gone to pot because of the feud between Dowd and Keliher appointees . . . And Sheriff Frederick R. Sullivan, who has made about only one appointment of his own, is expected to take a hand

THE RACE for appointment as court officer in the Municipal Criminal Court is on hot and heavy. Leader for the post seemes to be pleasant, well-liked Officer Tom Kennedy, patrolman on the Boston police force.

EBULLIENT N. F. T. (Newcomb F. Thompson, radio editor for the American) tells us that Austen Lake (the American's solid, war-going reporter) will be interviewed over radio station WEEI Sunday afternoon between 1:30 and 1:45 by Jay Wesley . . . Besides getting one of the best spots of the week to reach a huge audience (WEEI is the Columbia Network outlet in Boston), Lake's talk is expected to be a whiz . . . His series of articles on the war begins in Monday's American, and they'll be good.

NOTE ON THE AIRLINES . . . Announcement that the Archmere Corp. (airplane manufacturers) in Lowell have made a production model small plane that is supposed to be absolutely foolproof (land itself, etc.) brings to mind the fact that there is another small foolproof plane already being sold in Boston—the Ercoupe . . . The sensational advance these planes make is that they have one less control for the new pilot to worry about—no foot pedals to the rudder.

ON THE ERCOUPE, there is a rudder, but it has been connected to the stick (the wheel, pardon us) and manipulating the hand control works the rudder automatically . . . The Archmere has no rudder at all, turns by use of the ailerons alone . . . Ercoupe is all metal . . . The Archmere production model even today is being tested at the airport to get a government license as a commercial model (now it has only an experimental license—NX markings on the wings. It wants NC).

MOVIE ACTOR JIMMY CAGNEY came to town! He slipped off the train at the Huntington ave. station, jumped into the cab of Alfred Larkin of Dorchester, said: "Drive me to Brockton" . . . So Larkin did . . . On the way down Cagney said: "How's business?" and with a quick look at his meter Larkin answered: "It's picking up" . . . The star was on his way to Martha's Vineyard . . . Larkin, who got $6.70 for the trip, didn't ask Jimmy how his business was.

BUFFALO BILL'S LIFE STORY FOR SCREEN

By Louella O. Parsons

Buffalo Bill

HOLLYWOOD, April 12—Picturesque Buffalo Bill, whose flowing locks, sombrero and prancing horse delighted everyone who saw his famous "Wild West Show," is the hero selected by Harry Sherman for his first $1,200,000 Technicolor epic. Joel McCrea, almost as much at home on horseback as William Cody (Buffalo Bill) will play the pony express rider who got his name from furnishing buffalo meat to the Kansas Pacific Railway. "Pahaska," the story by Frank Winch, Buffalo Bill's press agent takes in a span of 50 years, starting when Bill first went to New York at the age of 22, and ending with his touching farewell at Madison Square Garden.

'Pahaska' means long flowing hair, which, of course, was Buffalo Bill's famous trademark. Since Harry Sherman's 'Hopalong Cassidy' and other westerns have been so successful financially he would be permitted by Paramount to go the limit and I will see one of the best directors in the business.

WELL, it's a surprise! Gene Raymond, "U" director Wilhelmina Von Horne again after he obtained his divorce from Beryl Morse, is Jeanne Logan. He has been married since December and his bride is the former Mrs. Grace Gerrard, wealthy widow. The reason I know this is I learned that Grey was sending flowers every day to Grace La Cava in the hospital. The romance blossomed and Grace started to Mexico where they were neighbors and shortly after his return with Doris Nolan went in the house.

JOAN CRAWFORD ANN HARDING has such a staunch admirer in Rowland Brown that he is holding up his new story, "Girls' Town," until he can get a producer who sees Ann as the head of a girls' school. I happen to know that Rowland has had a number of offers—remember he wrote "The Devil Was a Sissy" and "Angels With Dirty Faces?" His new story is certainly in reverse English for there is certainly no girls' school that carries on the good work that Father Flanagan has put into Boys' Town. The Brown story deals with the unfairness of not giving the girls the same chance that the boys have under Father Flanagan's fine guidance.

NASH HITS NEW TOP IN SALES

Sweeping public approval of the new car with which Nash entered the lowest-priced field a few months ago has brought the company the biggest sales in its 25-year-history, W. A. Blees, general sales manager, revealed when he addressed Nash dealers from the entire New England area gathered at the Statler to celebrate the "Victory Dinner."

Blees had planned to attend the Boston dinner because this region's percentage gain was greater than New York's, Pittsburgh's Washington's or Philadelphia's but at the last minute discovered it would be impossible so he arranged a long distance phone hook-up from Indianapolis. Bless said:

Bill Bless

"Nash business in January-February-March throughout the United States was twice as great as a year ago, and surpassed the all-time record for the period by a wide margin."

AMBASSADOR TOPS

To the new low-priced Nash Ambassador "600.. goes main credit for the record-breaking sales, Bless declared.

"We feel that the '600' represents the fourth great step that the automobile industry has taken forward in the last thirty years," he said. "The first step came in the 1910-1920 decade, with the development of low-cost transportation; the second, in the 1920's, with the addition of style and beauty to the industry's products, and the third, the introduction of luxury size and performance, which was the chief automotive development of the last decade."

"The public received all of these developments with tremendous enthusiasm. Our contribution, we believe, has been the development of an automobile that has all of the things to which the industry has accustomed the American public, plus about 30 per cent greater operating economy."

F. C. Sibley, general manager of Nash Motors of New England, factory branch here, complimented the New England dealers

SENSATIONALLY STREAMLINED PACKARD HERE

FORMER GOVERNOR ALVAN T. FULLER has the first "Clipper" on his Commonwealth ave. showroom floor. You can now peek at it in advance of the announcement. The first head-on view was shown last Saturday. Above, you will see a side view of the 1941 rakish streamlined revolutionary styled Packard.

MOTOR INDUSTRY SPREADS DEFENSE WORK OVER NATION

Loaded with orders calling for delivery of approximately $1,500,000,000 of finished airplane engines, tanks, machine guns, army trucks and other military products, the automobile industry is reaching into hundreds of cities, towns and villages up and down the United States to aid it in the gigantic undertaking.

The American style "bits and pieces" program, according to an article in the current Automobile Facts, published by the Automobile Manufacturers Ass'n, involves tapping the industrial facilities of thousands of suppliers for needed parts and equipment.

In Indianapolis, the publication points out, one automobile company is producing high-speed airplane engines at a 400-a-month clip. But this is made possible because men in New Britain, Ct., are carefully cutting screw machine parts for the engine; others in New Castle, Pa., are turning out valve seats and bushings, while in Cudahy, Wis., the steam hammers are pounding out forgings.

A recent check of just the chief fabricated and semi-finished parts going into the aircraft engine found that manufacturing concerns in 34 cities are participating in this particular defense job.

The small town of Clarinda, Ia., is contributing magnetic plugs; East Alton, Ill., is furnishing bronze units; Stamford, Ct., is supplying bearings; Sidney, N. Y., makes distributors; Warren, O., is shipping each dry ignition assemblies for the engines.

Closer examination of the work done in any of these cities shows how the great industrial chain can be traced further. In order for Warren,O. for exemple, to supply the completely assembled ignition systems, 52 other companies in a score of cities and towns are called upon to contribute parts, materials and supplies.

More than any other, the automobile industry keeps in close and constant touch with thousands of sources of supply. More than 2200 items are purchased for the manufacture of one make of passenger car alone, needs ranging from paper clips to 250-ton drop forges.

A special study several years ago by the magazine "Automotive Industries" found that 45 states—only Nevada, New Mexico and Wyoming excepted—have automotive industrial plants listed

BOSTON TOP NASH SALES REGION

DEALERS from the entire New England region celebrated at the Statler their 125 per cent sales gain which topped all other Atlantic Coast regions. Left to right, R. H. PONTIAC SALES UP

Pontiac retail deliveries in New England for the first three months of 1941 totaled 6274 against 3545 for the first three months of 1940, reports Charles N. Kane, Boston zone manager, who said "this represents in three short months an 80 per cent increase over last year."

E. E. Richards Hoffman Aide

Paul G. Hoffman, Studebaker president, announces that E. E. Richards has joined The Studebaker Corporation as assistant to the president. Mr. Richards, who is 36, is a graduate of Dartmouth College and the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

He became a member of the industrial department of Lehman Brothers, investment banking firm, after leaving Harvard. In that capacity for the past 13 years, he has been in continuous association with a wide variety of industrial organizations.

CHEVROLET AIMS FOR EFFICIENCY

Specialization for efficiency was the keynote of the two-day business meeting of 50 Chevrolet sales organization top executives in Detroit.

Plans and programs were revealed by William E. Holler and the central office staff to regional managers and their assistants that will govern future field procedure.

This newly created specialization program embraces the concentration of additional specially trained man-power on the three big phases of dealer operations. More than 130 new appointments were announced for regional and zone personnel.

IN CLOSE TOUCH

"Chevrolet keeps in close touch with economic affairs of the nation, its dealers and customers," said Mr. Holler. "The central office knows that it is timely to specialize for efficiency, and we are now organized for co-ordinated sales direction.

"The service and mechanical department will be expanded by the addition of forty-five assistant zone service mechanical managers, who will spend all of their time in the field, working directly with the 8500 dealers' service managers, to train and school apprentices to take the places of mechanics who will be required for the National Defense Program.

"The second major phase of the program is the addition of 45 assistant zone truck managers, one in every zone, to reinforce the present truck organization.

OLDS DEALERS HEAR PLANS

Leading Oldsmobile dealers and sales managers from the 26 zones throughout the nation concluded a sales conference in White Sulphur Springs, West Virginia. The meeting was conducted by D. E. Ralston Oldsmobile general sales manager, who revealed detailed plans for an intensive sales program contemplated for the spring selling season.

G. R. Browder, H. A. Trevellyn and R. L. Myers, assistant general sales manager, V. C. Havens, advertising manager, F. Q. Murphy, Eastern regional manager, and G. R. Jones, Pacific regional manager for Oldsmobile, assisted Ralston at the White Sulphur Springs conference.

Valvoline Oil Co. Has Diamond Jubilee Fete

The Jenney Manufacturing Co., Boston, as the oldest oil company in the United States, is this spring participating in the observance of the diamond jubilee of a contemporary, the Valvoline Oil Co., oldest makers of Pennsylvania lubricants in use today.

"The year 1941 marks the completion of 75 years of uninterrupted existence for the Valvoline Oil Co.," said Charles S. Jenney, president of the Jenney Manufacturing Co., exclusive New England Valvoline distributor. "We are delighted to be able to take part in recognizing this record of service by the company which first introduced Pennsylvania lubricants as we know them."

The present far-flung Valvoline Oil Co. had its inception back in 1866, when a Dr. John Ellis of Michigan organized the Continuous Oil Refining Co. to distill and market what was then called "rock oil"—a Pennsylvania petroleum product.

Dr. Ellis' original company changed its name to Leonard & Ellis and then, a few years later, to the Valvoline Oil Co. we now know.

Dr. Ellis, a mechanically inclined medico, patented several devices for the first commercial refining of steam cylinder lubricants and other quality oils. The first superheated steam still of this baby company had only a 10-barrel capacity.

In post-Civil War days, steam cylinder lubrication was accomplished by tallow, lard or other compounds of vegetable and animal fats. As lubricants they are conspicuous for their short-comings.

MR BUMSTEAD ISN'T HERE TODAY, MR DITHERS- HIS BABY ARRIVED LAST NIGHT
WHAT?
IT'S JUST LIKE BUMSTEAD TO HAVE A BABY THE DAY WE START A MILLION-DOLLAR ORDER!

PEOPLE wondered why Miss Phoebe never married. She was stout and graying now, but in her young days she must have been pretty—with that quick smile of hers. She was a grand cook, such a motherly soul, and jolly, too. Not a bit like an old maid.

"No, I never married," she would laugh. "But I figure I have a larger family than most people."

And she had—even before Miss Turner came and stayed. She was Aunt Phoebe to half the town. She was always taking care of some young wife's baby for an afternoon or giving a tea party for a chattering flock of seven and eight-year-old girls.

In her dining room she kept a jar filled with cookies for the youngsters who were always dropping in. At every high school graduation she was the special guest of some boy or girl, proud as the parents themselves.

Only a motherly heart like hers would have made her invite Miss Turner for a visit. Nobody else would have taken in that doleful creature though they all knew the dampness in the spinster's house by the creek gave her bad sinus trouble. Sometimes out of pity, some family asked Miss Turner to a meal, but they breathed a sigh of relief when she went.

"I'm all alone in the world," Miss Turner was forever lamenting.

Her faded eyes were always rimmed with red as if she wept frequently. She was still wearing mourning for some distant relative who died 10 years ago.

Miss Turner's sinus improved at Miss Phoebe's, but it never seemed to get well enough for her to go back to her house by the creek. Weeks, months and then a whole year passed. It began to look as if she would stay with Miss Phoebe permanently. The townsfolk began telling each other it was nice the two women had each other for company.

Thin and flat-chested by nature, Miss Turner actually began taking on a little weight. Miss Phoebe's visitors seemed to brighten her up, too. It was probably Miss Phoebe's suggestion, but Miss Turner even made a graduation dress for the Bigges girl whose family was so poor.

A DINNER GUEST

One day Mr. Brown, the plumber, a lean, dyspeptic old bachelor if ever there was one, fixed a leaky pipe for Miss Phoebe. And then Mrs. Jane, who lived next door, actually saw him all dressed up and going to Miss Phoebe's for dinner the following Sunday. Everyone had often heard Mr. Brown complain that the Comstock diner by the station gave him indigestion, but it took Miss Phoebe to think of inviting him to a meal.

The Cast of Characters in "Miss Phoebe's Family"

MISS PHOEBE, a motherly soul who never married.
MISS TURNER, a sour, always complaining spinster.
MR. BROWN, a dyspeptic old bachelor.

Miss Phoebe's Family

By Isabel Johnston

Next day Mrs. Jane dropped over and learned that Mr. Brown ate a shrimp cocktail, clam chowder, roast pork and chocolate cake without getting the slightest pain. Archly Mrs. Jane suggested that the way to a man's heart was through his stomach. But Miss Phoebe only laughed.

"He certainly did enjoy his food," she said.

"We were glad to give the poor, lonely man a good home cooked meal," Miss Turner sighed.

"It was Miss Turner's chocolate cake he liked the most," Miss Phoebe tried to cheer her. "He ate a second piece."

"The poor man," repeated Miss Turner.

Everybody scoffed at Mrs. Jane for scenting romance. It was just Miss Phoebe's kindness and Mrs. Jane was just imagining things. Of course, it would be awfully nice if Miss Phoebe got married, and if anyone could fatten up Mr. Brown, she could. But after all . . .

Then surprisingly, Mr. Brown not only went to Miss Phoebe's for dinner, but he began taking the two ladies to church fairs and suppers. It was probably Miss Phoebe's idea to cheer Miss Turner up a bit, but Miss Turner actually made herself a lavender dress and wore it instead of her mourning.

It was really quite quaint to see the two maiden ladies, Miss Phoebe, stout and smiling, and Miss Turner, frail and pathetic, trotting around with that funny old bachelor for their escort. People began joking about how Mr. Brown would soon be moving into Miss Phoebe's spare bedroom.

A ROMANCE?

When Mr. Brown had his house painted inside and out and built a bay window for house plants, it began to look serious. At sewing circles—and bridge parties, too—they began discussing just what kind of a husband Mr. Brown would make. Of course, he was old fashioned and bachelorish, but he was a hard worker, the best plumber in town, owned his own business and on the whole would probably make Miss Phoebe a very fine husband. But it was strange to think of Miss Phoebe marrying after all these years.

Mrs. Jane insisted Mr. Brown wasn't good enough for Miss Phoebe, no man was! But then, probably she hated to have Miss Phoebe move up to the other end of town. It would be so inconvenient when she wanted to leave her orphaned grandchildren with Miss Phoebe on the afternoons the Daughters of the American Revolution met.

Everyone agreed the marriage would be held on Miss Turner. Back in her house on the creek again, her sinus and her dolefulness would probably grow worse than ever. Of course, she might sell her own place and buy Miss Phoebe's. Or maybe, Miss Phoebe could persuade Mr. Brown to let her live with them.

After all it wasn't as if they were young folks who would want to be by themselves. On the whole the town decided this would be the best plan. Hadn't Miss Phoebe said that Mr. Brown liked Miss Turner's cake?

The romance caused more excitment than a scandal. At the pinocle parties at the firehouse, the men joked about whether marital happiness would make Mr. Brown put his prices up. Several of the ladies began worrying about wedding presents. Miss Phoebe had always done so many nice things for them, they wanted to give her something especially nice. Young Mrs. Harris suggested that each of them tell the others what they planned to give so there wouldn't be any duplicates.

Why didn't the couple announce the engagement so they could give Miss Phoebe showers? It really was a pity Mr. Brown's house was furnished and Miss Phoebe's linens and dishes were so complete. They would really have to rack their brains to find things she needed.

Hadn't Mr. Brown proposed yet? His house was all painted and the bay window built. What was he waiting for? No one quite dared to ask questions of Miss Phoebe, for all she was such friends with all of them. But one day curiosity got the best of Mrs. Jane. She watched until she saw Miss Phoebe going off with some flowers and soup for sick old Mrs. Kane. Then she hurried over to pump Miss Turner. But Miss Turner proved unbelievably dence.

"Mr. Brown's certainly devoted," Mrs. Jane hinted. "I guess there'll be a wedding soon?"

"The only man I ever loved died 30 years ago."

Trust Miss Turner to be so occupied with a dead and buried romance that she couldn't give a person a bit of news of a live romance right under her nose! Mrs. Jane went home in disgust.

THE WEDDING!

Then when folks were saying Miss Phoebe just didn't know how to hook a man, she sent word around the town to come to the wedding. It was to be next Saturday at 11. Miss Phoebe apologized for such short notice and no wedding invitations, but it seemed best to have the wedding in a hurry.

Mr. Brown wanted to get back from a two weeks' honeymoon in Atlantic City before the city people started coming out in the spring and wanting their water turned on and their electric pumps repaired all at once.

Of course, Miss Phoebe always did do things for other people. But why . . . the whole town simply couldn't believe it. The wedding wasn't for Miss Phoebe. It was Miss Turner who was marrying Mr. Brown! It must be said for them that they rose to the occasion. Heroically they gave the wedding presents lovingly selected for Miss Phoebe. Half the women in town baked chicken pies and cakes for the buffet luncheon—and everybody came.

After the luncheon, Miss Turner, Mrs. Brown now, of course, wept to be leaving all her dear, dear friends for two whole weeks. But they threw rice and shoes and confetti and finally got rid of her. It was a most hilarious wedding—and at last it was time to take their wedding cake and leave.

Half the women in town baked chicken pies and cakes for the buffet luncheon and everybody came.

At the best moment, everyone felt sad. It was terrible to think that Miss Phoebe, such a good cook, such a born wife, should have missed this last chance to get married. It was sad to leave her alone among the debris of someone else's wedding feast. A number of them urged her to come and have supper with them, so she wouldn't feel let down and lonely with even Miss Turner gone. But she refused everyone of them, saying cheerfully that after all the excitement, it would do her good to sit down by herself. The funny part of it was that her face was as radiant as if she had been the bride.

Nobody paid much attention to Mrs. Jane when she kept sniffing that they might have known one lone, dyspeptic bachelor wasn't a big enough family for Miss Phoebe.

RED SOX ARRIVE IN HUB FOR BEES BATTLE

TUNING UP—Broadway Charlie Wagner, Red Sox pitcher, eats a hearty breakfast on arrival in town for the opening of the baseball season. Dapper Wagner showed amazing form on the mound to gain rating as one of Manager Joe Cronin's dependables for the coming campaign.

SOCKERS—Bad News Sammy Hale and Dom DiMaggio look forward to big seasons with the Red Sox. Hale, an infielder who is expected to see a lot of service, was obtained from the Cleveland Indians in the winter trading session.

NEWCOMERS — Skeeter Newsome, infielder, Pete Fox, outfielder, and Joe Dobson, pitcher, arrive at Back Bay station on Red Sox Special. All will be making their first appearance in Boston uniforms.

VETERAN ROOKIE — A former member of the St. Louis Chain Gang, Mike Ryba, appears well pleased to join the Yawkey clan. Ryba, 36-year-old pitcher, ranks with the top twirlers on the Cronin staff.

READY AND WAITING — Pitchers Jack Wilson and Mickey Harris discuss the coming flag race with first baseman Jimmy Foxx after arrival in town for city series with Bees. Harris, farmed out last year after a grand start, should stick in the big time this year.

Sox Better, Cronin Says

By HERB FINNEGAN

Home today after a seven weeks' training sojourn in the Southland, and what does Joe Cronin think of his 1941 Red Sox?

"A better ball club than last year," he replied unhesitatingly. "More strongly fortified all along the line."

Doc Cramer was missing from the outfield patrol and Frankie Pytlak had replaced Gene Desautels behind the bat. Otherwise the club was very much the same. What accounted for his optimism?

"The fact that DiMaggio is in good health," says the Sox skipper, and we agree.

Cramer was playing a deep center field a year ago and missing a lot of short fly balls. DiMaggio, even Bill McKechnie admits, is the greatest defensive outfielder in baseball.

ADMITS HE'S BETTER

Finney, the best bargain the Sox ever got, is matchless in right field. The Reds would spot Brooklyn 10 games if they could have Lou on their side. They admit it.

Williams is expected to be able to play. If not, Pete Fox, veteran of eight years with the Tigers, will hold the fort until Ted returns. And the home run hitting Stan Spence is also available. No better outfield in baseball.

The infield was considered quite porous in '40, and the same quartet is playing this year. Where could the improvement be?

"The shortstop will be better," said Manager Cronin of Player Cronin. "He's eight pounds lighter than he was in April 1940; he's faster, and he's fielding better.

"Doerr, too, is an improved ball player in every department. I never saw him hitting so well at this time of the year. His fielding is smoother, especially on double plays. And his "appendix twin," Jim Tabor, is on the threshold of his best year.

("Must be something to that appendix business," said Joe aside. "Perhaps Cronin should have had his out, too.")

Had Pytlak come up to expectations?

"Surpassed them," Joe remarked. I figured he might be bench rusty, but he's the same little pepper pot he was three years back. Smart hitter, isn't he (yes). He'll help our young pitchers, too."

That was it, the pitching. Shodd, pitching had been blamed for the downfall of the Sox year in and year out.

TOO GOOD TO BE TRUE

Was it to be the same old story this year, or did Cronin have some boys who were going to be winners?

"The pitching has been too good to be true," he said, as he knocked on wood.

"Wilson, Ryba, Wagner, Hash, Rich, Harris, Johnson and Dobson have all shown well at times.

"Wagner, in particular, is improved. Where he used to be straining just there, he now seems very much at home. Looked great against the Reds in Louisville, didn't he (yes). But I honestly don't know whether [illegible] whether it's just because the Reds [illegible]

"Anyway, they've done everything asked of them to date, and a manager can't ask more. I only hope they hold up."

This baseball pilgrim's hunch is that Joe will depend on the veteran Mika Ryba, Jack Wilson, Woody Rich, Charlie Wagner and Mickey Harris as his first line, with Dickman and Hash in the bullpen.

"I'll use Ryba as a starting pitcher in the spring at least," Joe admitted.

Cronin wouldn't predict where

BRUINS HOPE TO END CUP SERIES TONIGHT

By JOHN GILLOOLY

DETROIT, April 12—The Bruins wound up today preparatory to delivering a K. O. punch upon the Red Wings at the Olympia tonight, their long regret being that they will say a long-distance farewell to their Boston admirers by closing the 1940-41 ice hockey campaign and the quest for the Stanly Cup here in the Auto City.

Weary after a long and larruping season, the Ross A. C. is anxious to reach the finish line. All, except the Wings themselves and a few ever loyal followers, agreed the wire would be reached this p. m. before an audience which may touch the 10,000 mark. A demand for tickets is not what might be called feverish.

Pilot Jack Adams today made plans to forestall the Wngs funeral. He's going to employ Eddie Wares, although this right-winger is far from robust health, and Harry "Horse" Jackson, a defensive giant, in an effort to prolong Series E, a four out of seven affair for the cup itself.

The B's have won three straight by scores of 3-2, 3-1, 4-2 and need but one more triumph to annex the Stanley Cup for the third time in their 17 years existence and to set a new record for sweeping to the title in straight sets.

The Rossmen are not too robust themselves. Trainer Hammy Moore and Dr. Martin Crotty continue to keep busy. The athletes are well scarred and bruised but not seriously enough to be kept on the bench. All are eager to finish off the Wings and ready to shoot the full works again tonight.

"We've got to sign on the Wings," said Capt. Clapper today. "We'll finish 'em tonight. They'll be plenty tough, and we expect the hardest game of the entire play-offs."

Fortunately, the Bruins, while planning a cup deliberation, are not relaxing. They are aware Detroit will give them the entire business in the last stand. Neither Art Ross nor Coach Cooney Weiland has had to inform the players of this fact.

Two years ago, the Bruins, practically the same group which is now a stride from the title, learned a lesson when they took three in a row from the Rangers and then cooled off. Before they knew it, the Rangers had squared the series at three each.

Detroit hardly has the equipment to make a comeback of this sort. They might. If Wares was fully fit and Ebbie Goodfellow, their superstar, was not side-lined by a collapsible knee.

Should the Wings win and stretch the struggle to five contests, the series will return to Boston for game No. 5, Tuesday night, at which time Bill Cowley will be available. Dr. Crotty has had word from Boston that Cowley is recovering rapidly and he was ready to fly to Detroit for tonight's number if needed. The B's see no reason for an SOS to Cowley in their present commanding position.

If they're beaten, the Bruins will remain here overnight and leave for Boston Sunday evening. If they capture the cup they'll head for Boston on a special train shortly after the game.

B. C. Baseball Team Unsettled

Only 72 hours from the opening game of the Boston College baseball campaign, Coach Red Maguire is undecided on the nine-up which he will employ against the Northeastern Huskies next Tuesday at the latter team's Kenmore Sq. st. field.

Coach Maguire, former Holy Cross College and Big Eight baseball star, will use lettermen Capt. Fred Sawyer at first base, Joe Maguire at shortstop, Jimmy "Red" Callahan at third base, Frank "Ex-Footballer" Davis in right field and George Kerrivan in left field.

The battles for the other posts—starting pitch, catcher, centerfield, and second base—are still fiercely contested affairs.

(Dave Wilson's form today contains an added time feature. Figures on the extreme right hand side of the form tell you the time in which Wilson's private figures indicate the horse will run this particular race. Zero in front of time indicates that most recent race has been thrown out in arriving at the final result.)

Giants Glad to See Last of Bob Feller

NEW YORK, April 12—The New York Giants have had their last look at Cleveland's Bob Feller for this spring and all hands but Manager Bill Terry are thankful.

The Giants haven't been able to hit "Rapid Robert" at all. Gabby Hartnett, who faced him for the first time while the Tribe was pounding out a 7-1 victory at Richmond yesterday, drew two walks, popped out twice and returned to the bench marveling that a baseball could be thrown so fast.

Frank Hayes Fit For Mack's Opener

WICHITA, Kan., April 12—Frankie Hayes, regarded as one of the best catchers in the American League, apparently is in tiptop condition for the Philadelpia Athletics' opener Tuesday. His receiving is superlative and he demonstrated yesterday that his batting is okay by getting five hits in six tries against Pittsburgh.

KAPLAN SURE HE'LL WIN GO WITH ZIVIC

If confidence will do it, Mike Kaplan will whip Welterweight Champion Fritzie Zivic when they collide in a non-title 10-rounder next Friday night at the Garden.

Mike has had one fight with Zivic and, although he finished on the short end of a split decision, came away with the firm belief he can whip the Pittsburgher who later went on to wallop Henry Armstrong and take the 147-pound crown.

Kaplan is a stylist who will have a wide edge on Zivic in the boxing end of it. Experts think that Kaplan, with a k. o. punch in either fist, would waltz right into the crown. Kaplan's punches have been showing more power of late. In his last start he won by a k. o. in the first round.

He's been hitting sharply and solidly in gym workouts at Kelley and Hayes and no one would be surprised if he scored a t. k. o. or a k. o. win.

Other bouts Friday night will be Bill Tordiglione vs. Bill Campanelli, 8 rounds; Charlie Burley vs. Eddie Ellis, 8 rounds; Harold Harris vs. Al Sforza, 6 rounds; Red Priest vs. Mickey Green, 4 rounds; and Larry Pacino, making his professional bow, vs. Tony Taranto, 4 rounds.

Princeton, Rutgers Open Crew Season

PRINCETON, N. J., April 12 (INS)—Princeton and Rutgers today pry the lid off the intercollegiate rowing season with a three-race regatta on Lake Carnegie. The varsity, junior varsity and freshmen crews will meet over the mile and three-quarter course.

Golf Problem

SEATTLE, APRIL 12 (AP)—IT took Mrs. C. O. Thrasher two golf balls—and a variety of strokes—to reach the green.

It's up to the U. S. G. A. rules committee to figure the thing out from there.

Mrs. Thrasher was poised for a swing at her ball when another rolled in from an adjoining fairway, jostling hers aside and stopping in virtually the same spot. Unable to halt her swing, Mrs. Thrasher rapped it to the green.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

RACING SECRETARY Bob Shelley has reason to be proud of the fine eight race program he is offering at the opening of Narragansett Park today. Shelley has attractive fields starting in each race, while he had his races filled early. There was not any last minute scramble around the barn area of the Pawtucket, R. I., track to secure the necessary entries.

BOB SHELLEY

Shelley knows the ability of the large number of horses on the grounds, and he may be relied upon to arrange races that will fill. The trouble with many racing secretaries is that they do not write races that are suitable for the horses that are at their track.

It is seldom that a New England race meeting has got off more smoothly than the one at Narragansett Park. From the time the first horse appeared on the grounds the Narragansett management and those persons employed at the track have kept things moving along at a fast pace without friction.

President James E. Dooley and his associates at Narragansett Park have their racing plant in splendid condition for what should be one of the finest spring meetings in the history of New England racing.

Billy Ames, boss of the press department at Narragansett, is predicting new records for attendance, mutuel handle and racing, and it looks as if his forecasts will come true.

FRANK LEAHY, former Boston College football coach and now head coach at Notre Dame, has a habit of doing the right thing. We have received the following letter from Leahy written on the stationery of Notre Dame:

"I am writing to express my sincere gratification for the grand publicity which the Hearst papers gave our team in 1939, 1940 and in the early days of 1941.

"We are deeply grateful for the fine stories and excellent pictures concerning Boston College which appeared in the Hearst Boston newspapers. I do not know if we will ever be in a position to reciprocate your courtesy, but if we are please say the word."

GEORGE PERRY, oldtime ring star, was a caller at this office. He was accompanied by his two fine sons, Frank and Bob, who have been giving boxing exhibitions at athletic nights throughout Greater Boston.

BOXING BROTHERS—FRANK AND BOB PERRY

The two boys have been well schooled in boxing by their dad, and produce stirring action. They also give splendid boxing exhibitions. They will be on the card at the coming police benefit.

Down through the years George Perry has devoted much of his time to teaching youngsters boxing. George realizes that a boy who knows how to box develops a high sense of sportsmanship and becomes a better citizen.

Pro Bowlers Bring Down Curtain On American-Record Tourney

By WALTER KILEY

A 13-day tournament which goes into the record books as New England's biggest and best comes to a smashing conclusion at the Huntington Club tonight.

More than 5000 men and women keglers will have participated in the 1941 American-Record championships by tonight's midnight closing hour.

By far the hottest competition of all is reserved for the final fling when starting promptly at 7:30 this evening, some 100 crack sharpshooters will lay down a barrage of strikes and spares in the men's professional singles title division.

Some $500 will be at stake as the "big shots" go all out in this accurate test of stamina and ability, an elimination affair in which survivors must first last through a five-strings qualifying round, five strings of semi-finals, and then go a 10 strings final, the latter to be held over until Saturday night, April 19.

LINE UP ON 50 ALLEYS

Tonight's roster includes virtually every great candlepin champion of the present and past, including Joe Bonigli, world champion, Francis Chiminiello, defending American-Record and past world champion, Mike Corrado, New England champion, Joe Rubbicco, Nick Faye, Harry Arathuzik, former American-Record champions.

The entire field will tee off at the one time, lined up on 50 alleys, two men to the alley, as drawn by lot. And the eventual winner will be rewarded with the most valuable title in world candlepin ranks.

The semi-final day saw new headline performers, chief of whom was 30-year-old Curtis Carr, town selectman and bank cashier from Whitinsville.

Carr, making his first excursion to this annual classic, toured the nine strings route in 1010 to take an impressive and all but insurmountable lead in the all-events championship.

He hit 336 in his singles, 335 in team competition and 339 in the doubles, a consistently spectacular performance all the more noteworthy due to the fact that he bowls duck pins more than the candles.

SEVERAL JUST MISSED

The Whitinsville contingent of 14 men had right good reason to return home cheered. For one of the two Whitinsville teams, the "Spare Men," came sailing in with a grand total of 1548, which was nine pins higher than the previous leading score of 1539 owned by the Cape Cod recreation five of West Yarmouth.

Following hard on Carr's pace-setting heels were teammates Tyce Baker with 321; Harold Farland with 320; Newell Wallace with 303, and Dutt Alden with 289.

Other feats which just missed catching the leaders were turned in by Louise Hamilton and Walter "Daisy" Haley, seasoned veterans and former champions who combined for 593 in the open mixed doubles, just four pins off the pace; Bob Rankin and Mercy Lavanage of Ed Murray's Rockland Bowladrome, who finished third in the same class with 991; and the men's open doubles mark of 1095 carded by two of the six Chiminiello brothers of Quincy, Mike getting 573 and Ralph 522.

Dodger-Yank Tilts Split Student Fans

BROOKLYN, April 12 — The windup of the Dodgers-Yankees spring series is causing a notable division of loyalties among fans from Richmond Hill, especially the 300 or so Richmond Hill High School students who watched yesterday's game.

Territorially, the section falls within the Dodger sphere of influence, but the Yanks have two Richmond Hill boys, Marius Russo who started on the mound yesterday, and Phil Rizzuto. None of the Brooklyn players comes from the home territory.

RACKATACK CHOICE

SAN MATEO, Cal., April 11 (AP)—Rackatack, racing in the colors of Charles S. Howard, may be the one to beat in the $5000 added California Derby tomorrow at Bay Meadows. The mile and a sixteenth event, for three-year-olds and upwards, attracted a ten-horse field.

Sox Better Than in '40 Cronin Says

the Sox might finish. Four years ago he was quoted as saying the Sox would win the pennant, and they finished fifth.

Last year a national weekly carried a story by a Cronin ghost writer entitled "We Can Beat the Yanks." The Sox tied with the White Sox for fourth place, far behind the Tigers, Indians and Yanks.

No more predictions, but it's easy to divine by the smile on the corner of his mouth that Cronin figures his Sox will surprise the baseball world this year.

They have all kinds of power, more than any club in either league. They have strong outfield reserv (Pete Fox, Stan Spence). They have a slick fielding shortstop in Skeeter Newsome. They have a fine right handed pinch hitter in Sammy Hale.

Cronin believes his infield is adequate as presently constituted, (we disagree); his catching is good, so the crux is pitching. And to date that pitching has been A-1.

Well, if the Sox are improved as much at shortstop as Cronin believes, and if that pitching is brought along evenly, they can make life miserable for the Yanks, Indians and Tigers as they did for the world champion Reds this spring.

Only time will tell that, however

Washington Fans Preview Club Today

WASHINGTON, April 12—The Senators' fans today got their first preview of the team which will open the American League season Monday against the Yankees. Young Walter Masterson was nominated to pitch against the Baltimore Orioles.

The Nats, despite dismal predictions about their chances this year, came up from the South with an impressive record of 15 victories in 22 exhibitions, the most recent a 4-1 triumph over the Phillies at Martinsville, Va., yesterday.

Postal Employes Hold Bowling Fete

Coach Denny Myers of Boston College and his staff will be the guests of the Postal Employes' Bowling League members at their second annual banquet and ladies' night April 14 at the Hotel Westminster. Supt. of Delivery John J. Sheehan of Boston will represent Postmaster Peter F. Tague and present the prizes to the various winners.

Supt. Joseph F. O'Gorman of the Newton postoffice, president of the league, will be toastmaster.

NEW JAMAICA OPENS N. Y. RACE CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—The men who spent most of the winter rebuilding the Jamaica race track won the first race—and from now on it's up to the horses.

The construction gangs just finished up the job yesterday, and today's customers for the opening of a 24-day meeting will find a new grandstand, seating 15,000, and various other improvements.

The plant's seating capacity and standing capacity has been increased to nearly 30,000 and if the weather is good it should be pretty nearly full by the time the 32d Paumonok Handicap is run today.

Other facilities also have been expanded—especially in the mutuel department—in the $1,000,000 rebuilding job.

PAUMONOK TOPS CARD

The Paumonok, which had its inception in 1906, should hold its place as one of the outstanding early season sprints.

Trainer "Sunny Jim" Fitzsimmons, who has won it the past three years, has entered his No. 2 Derby hopeful, King Cole, as well as his leading handicap runner, William Woodward's Fenelon.

King Cole, who carries the Ogden Phipps colors, also is entered in the Cedarmore Purse against rivals of his age, and probably will start in this company.

If he does, he'll face another Fitzsimmons Derby candidate, Periasphere, and Sam Tufano's eligible, Market Wise.

In the Paumonok are such noted speedsters as Maxwell Howard's The Chief, Doubt Not, Catapult, Call to Colors, Town Boy, Here Goes, Ramases and Roman Flag. Fenelon drew the top weight of 126 pounds, six more than Doubt Not.

The only discordant note in the whole picture is the possibility that Racing Secretary Jack Campbell may have trouble filling the "cheap" races on the daily cards.

Although more than 1000 horses are stabled on Long Island, many of them aren't far enough advanced in their training to go to the races yet and the recent ruling of the State Racing Commission that all trainers must carry workmen's compensation for their employes may influence many of them to ship to other states instead of coming to New York.

DOUBLE SETS TEST

Today's opening marks the start of New York's second season of racing with mutuel wagering and an experiment with the "daily double," hitherto banned, will be tried out during the third week of the meeting.

If the commission decides the public wants the double and that the state will profit by it, this form of betting will be continued through the rest of the 174-day New York season.

Jenne New Star in Follies' Ice Show

The Ice Follies of 1941 are packing them in again at Boston Garden. The great ice figure skating extravaganza played to a record attendance here in January, but it is evident from the Thursday and Friday night attendance that there are still thousands of New Englanders still anxious to see the world's greatest skaters in action.

One of the show's youngsters was making her first public appearance in a feature spot. Jenne Schulte, a mid-western girl who had been with the Follies for several years in a less prominent position, made her bow as the "girl" in the "two boys and a girl" number listed as the Vogue Trio. She had never skated this difficult routine before an audience before.

Every top star of the Follies left the backstage area to crowd along the far end of the "promenade" section of seats. And perhaps the biggest smile of all was that of Evelyn Chandler's when Jenne went through the routine without an error and took her lift somersault at the end of the number. And in what other sport, production or business would the top-rankers take the time, or have the interest, to root for a youngster trying to make good?

Cardinals Tackle Haney's Rough Riders

ST. LOUIS April 12—Tuning up for bigger things, Billy Southworth's Cardinals and Fred Haney's "Rough Rider" Browns tangled today in the first game of their city series.

Both managers named 16-game winners as their starting pitchers—Bill McGee for the Cards and Elden Auker for the Browns—but expected to call upon newcomers to finish. The Cards were expected to unveil Rookie John Grodzicki and the Browns to try out their winter purchases, Johnny Allen and George Caster.

ELECT HOOP CAPTAIN

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., April 11 (AP)—Jack R. Gregory, Evanston, Ill., a guard, was elected captain of the 1942 Wesleyan basketball team today.

SOX HILL ACE RYBA HIT BY FOXX DRIVE

Under unusual conditions for the annual inter-city series, the Bees and Red Sox went into action this afternoon at National League Field. During the Red Sox practice, Jimmy Foxx felled Mike Ryba with a terrific line drive. The first ball that Ryba pitched, Foxx teed off on. It shot back, and cracked Mike on the right forearm. Ryba was taken to the clubhouse by Trainer Win Green.

His arm was paralyzed and because of a nerve condition, Ryba couldn't stop his arm from convulsing. He was removed to Fenway Park, and X-ray plates were taken immediately.

There were approximately 6500 royal fans on hand to greet the Bees and Red Sox when the game started.

Wes Ferrell and Emerson Dickman were the starting pitchers, with Ray Berres and Frankie Pytlak on the receiving end.

FIRST INNING

RED SOX—DiMaggio fouled to Berres. Finney doubled. Fox singled, scoring Finney. Foxx hit into a double play, Miller to Rowell to Dahlgren. ONE RUN.

BEES—Tabor made a great stop and threw out Sisti. Rowell was called out on strikes. Moore walked. Hale tossed out Averill. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING

THIRD INNING

RED SOX—DiMaggio walked. DiMaggio stole second. Finney popped to Dahlgren. Fox fouled to West. Foxx walked. Cronin tripled, scoring DiMaggio and Foxx. Hale doubled off the center field fence scoring Cronin. Tabor walked. Pytlak doubled off the left field wall scoring Hale and Tabor. Miller threw out Dickman. FIVE RUNS.

RED SOX—Errickson went into pitch for the Bees. DiMaggio singled. Finney tapped in front of the plate and Berres threw to Miller, forcing DiMaggio at second. Fox flied to Averll. Finney took second on a wild pitch. Foxx flied, scoring Finnely. Cronin flied to Moore. ONE RUN.

MIKE RYBA
Pitching Arm Hurt

BULLETIN

Dr. Thomas Richards, noted surgeon and Red Sox physician, said late this afternoon that Mike Ryba had sustained only a bad bruise when hit by a batted ball at the Beehive.

Ex-Lions' Grid Captain Victim Of Gas Poison

NEW YORK, April 12 (AP)—Twelve years ago Malcolm Bleecker's dogged determination won him the captaincy of Columbia University's football team.

A year later "Big Mal's" forceful personality netted him a graduation prize as the senior "most worthy of distinction on the ground of his qualities of mind and character."

Yesterday police found Bleecker, an insurance salesman; his daughter, Barbara, 6; his son Anthony, 2, and their cocker spaniel dead in the gas-filled kitchen of the Bleecker home in Queens.

Today, listing the former gridiron star a suicide, they were trying to find what broke down the resolute spirit. His wife, Ruth, said his business was on the downgrade.

Bill Lee Signs But Pay Is Cut

CHICAGO, April 12 (INS)—Bill Lee, the Chicago Cubs' right-handed pitcher and Marathon holdout, was finally in uniform today at a substantial salary cut from his last year's pay of $17,500.

Lee, who won 22 games in 1938, but slumped to nine wins against 17 losses in 1940, had been holding out for $15,000, but was reported to have settled for either $10,000 or $12,500, with a possible bonus if he hits his old stride.

25,000 at Gansett For Race Opener

By JACK CONWAY

NARRAGANSETT PARK, PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 12—Before a gay opening day crowd of 25,000 persons the New England racing season unfolded here today under ideal conditions.

Our David, under a good ride from Jockey C. Jedlinski, won the first race of the meeting. It was a six furlongs affair, and the winner paid $7.50, $4.50, $3.10. The time was 1.11 1-5.

Whiskolo was second by a nose, Lady Ariel finished third and Col. Goodnight fourth.

When Radio Wave took the honors in the second race, another six furlongs affair, there was a daily double payoff of $106.50. In the mutuels, Radio Wave returned $16.10 for the usual $2 investment.

Savitar made a spirited finish in the second race, but Radio Wave held on to win in a photo finish. Routine was third and High Finance fourth. The time of the winner was 1:13 1-5.

The track was lightning fast, while the weather was warm enough to make the big crowd comfortable.

The swanky terrace club on top of the clubhouse was opened with fitting ceremonies, and with enough parties for a whole season at an ordinary track. Narragansett did itself proud on its opening day, and the weather man did his share to make things click.

The latter moved up steadily on the inside through the back stretch, swung to the outside after rounding the final turn and was gaining steadily at the finish. Lady Ariel, outpaced early, made up some ground during the last five-sixteenths. Col. Goodnight bettered his position gradually and came determinedly during the final furlong. Secret Chatter failed to engage the leaders. Kilta Verse displayed good early speed, faltering during the last three-sixteenths. Pearson Eliminated For Opening Day

CINCINNATI, April 12—When the Detroit Tigers clubbed Monte Pearson's slow curves yesterday they virtually eliminated him as a possible opening-day pitcher for the Cincinnati Reds. They also added to Bill McKechnie's worries over the former American League's inability to loosen up.

They're Still Phils

LYNCHBURG, Va., April 12 (AP)—The Phillies are up to their old game-losing trick—leaving men on base. They threatened in virtually every inning against Washington yesterday, but in the pinch southpaw Ken Chase was too much for Bill Nagel, Nick Etten and Joe Marty. The Phils had 12 men left stranded as they lost, 4-1.
